1-Year Freeze On Farm Price Supports Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was urged Friday by a group of Republican senators to sign the one-year freeze on farm price supports which Congress passed last week.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson opposes the bill. It was freely predicted during congressional debate that Eisenhower would veto the measure if it passed.

A delegation of five GOP senators called on Eisenhower at the White House and asked him not to veto the bill. They said he gave them a sympathetic hearing but no promises.

More Sympathetic

Sen. Young of North Dakota, one of the five, told newsmen that Eisenhower appeared "more sympathetic to our viewpoint than he has in the past."

"But he didn't give any indication what he would do about a veto," Young added.

The GOP delegation represented a number of other Senate Republicans. In a party policy meeting this week, GOP senators voted 17-14 to urge Eisenhower not to kill the bill. The margin by which the measure passed Congress was nowhere near enough to override a veto.

Accompanying Young to the White House were Aiken of Vermont, Allott of Colorado, Carlson of Kansas and Mundt of South Dakota.

Eisenhower Concerned

Some of the senators reported afterward that Eisenhower expressed himself as quite concerned about what the group said would be the Republican party's "deteriorating political situation" if the bill is vetoed.

Some Republicans fear a veto would have serious political consequences for GOP congressional candidates in farm states this November.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerly, told reporters the President probably will not act on the farm bill before next week. Benson already has issued orders for a reduction in dairy price supports effective next Tuesday, April 1.

If Eisenhower signs the freeze bill before then, the dairy support cuts will be averted.

The bill also would continue supports or a number of other commodities at no less than 1957 levels. Democratic supporters of the measure contend a veto would cost farmers half a billion dollars in income this year.

Ruling Against Airlines Given In Gulf Crash

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Federal District Judge Herbert Christenberry Friday held National Airlines, Inc., negligent in connection with the Feb. 14, 1953, crash of its airliner in which 46 persons died.

The crash of the Tampa, Fla.-New Orleans flight in the Gulf of Mexico 45 miles south of Mobile, Ala., killed 41 passengers and five crewmen.

Judge Christenberry said reports on the co-pilot described him as "completely incompetent." The judge also issued a decree ordering that persons who sued the airline recover damages with interest at five per cent annual from the date of the crash until paid. He did not rule on the amount of damages but said the case would be fixed for trial on that issue unless the parties agreed within 20 days on the amount due those who sued.

Suits Filed

Suits against the airline were filed by Mrs. Beryl Whitman Stiles, widow of Harry F. Stiles Jr., New Orleans attorney, who was victim, and by N. H. Conder, administrator of the estate.

John H. Hinman, chairman of the board for International Paper Company, received the annual forest Farmer Award here last night at the Southern Forestry Conference banquet. The New York industrialist's forestry career spans a period of 45 years.

J. V. Whittfield, president of the Forest Farmers Association, pointed out that Hinman began his forestry career as a district manager with the company in 1913 after graduating from Dartmouth College. He has been chairman of the board for International Paper, the nation's largest private forestry organization, since 1954 and was president for 11 years before that.

Change

A change looms for Mrs. Mary Bridges whom hundreds of young people have known for she has been operator of a high grade "home," as she calls it, where many young people employed in professional duties get their meals and lodgings.

For 30 years, is the time Mrs. Bridges admits she has operated her downtown place on North Third street. Some time ago she felt disposed to give the press a story telling how many marriages had resulted from the meeting of young people around the table where they got their meals. But later she decided to give this information lest some would object. However she did say that a large number of couples had made a start to matrimony as they enjoyed their meals in this friendly atmosphere.

Next week, April 1, Mrs. Bridges will walk out of her place of business and move to 404 Park avenue, a house she has owned for years. She has four charming young women in their teens who will accompany her to the new home. "They will add to the brightness of my life, that's why I have chosen them!" she explained.

REGAIN LOST GROUND

Farm Prices Go Up During Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm product prices staged a sharp increase this month and have now regained most of the ground lost during the first five years of the Eisenhower administration.

A 4 per cent upturn between Feb. 15 and March 15 was reported Friday by the Agriculture Department.

The news came at a time when the administration was being pressed by congressional farm leaders to sign a bill countermanding reductions in government price supports ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Factors Involved

The 4 per cent rise—which reflected largely temporary supply and production factors—is expected to strengthen the secretary in his recommendations that the price support bill be vetoed.

The plane then flew direct to San Antonio, not making other scheduled stops.

Two Officers Exonerated In Negro's Death Police Report Killing After Attack In Car

By DANNY BINGHAM
and RECA BAMBURG
(Staff Writers)

TALLULAH—Two officers were exonerated by a Madison Parish coroner's jury late yesterday in the pistol death of a Negro man who was killed during a disturbance in a police car enroute from Delhi to Tallulah where he was to be jailed.

In the meantime, white teenage mother in his company when taken into custody was in jail last night pending investigation into charges of violating a state statute which prohibits cohabitation between Negroes and whites. Her bond was set at $2,000, but she had not been released at 5 p.m.

According to Sheriff C. E. Hester and Asst. Atty. Gen. Cliff Adams, the Negro, identified as William Sills Gundy, 27, was shot after he attacked one of the two officers transporting him to Tallulah. The authorities said Gundy slashed Tallulah City Patrolman James Rogan with a "crab-apple" switchblade knife before the shooting began.

Inquest Held

Dr. Otis Edgerton, Madison Parish coroner, stated after an inquest which began at 1 p.m. and continued until 4:30 yesterday afternoon, that a coroner's jury ruled Gundy "came to his death about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, by gunshot wounds fired by State Trooper James C. Martin and Tallulah City Patrolman James Rogan in line of duty, and our verdict is justifiable homicide."

It was understood that about "half a dozen" witnesses appeared during the inquest which was clos-

Labor Chief Asks Speedy Job Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fast action to meet "an immediate and urgent need" for unemployment benefits was urged on a critical House committee Friday by Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

Mitchell, opening witness at a Ways and Means Committee hearing on President Eisenhower's proposal for temporarily extending the duration of jobless benefit payments, ran into extended questioning by both Democratic and Republican members.

The labor secretary said the number of unemployed reaching the end of their benefits is expected to show a sharp upturn this month.

He placed the number at 147,000 in January and 145,500 in February, and said the March figure is expected to total 187,500. For the entire year, he estimated the total will be 2,300,000.

Mitchell said the administration's program for limited extension of benefits under existing state systems "will take care of the major part" of the current unemployment problem.

Describing the situation as "a matter of national concern" he said: "The assistance which these benefits will bring to the individual and his family will, by sustaining purchasing power, also assist in bolstering the economy."

Eisenhower has proposed advancing federal funds to finance a 50 per cent increase in the number of weeks unemployed workers covered by jobless insurance could draw benefits.

Anti-Recession Move Given Speedy Action

Dwarf Grows On Hormone From Brain

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A hormone collected from the brains of dead persons is making dwarfed children grow, a physician reported Friday.

One 13-year-old girl, only the size of a 6-year-old, grew nearly an inch in six weeks. That is as much as she had been growing in a full year.

Yet she got only 1-10,000th of the growth hormone daily.

She had stopped growing when a tumor destroyed her own glands, the pituitary gland in the brain which makes growth hormones.

Others Benefiting

Two other youngsters of the same age, dwarfed by natural failure to produce the hormone, are also benefitting, said Dr. Philip H. Henneman of Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School.

The hormone is obtained from the pituitary glands of dead persons and purified as a gray powder. It looks wholly unremarkable but has great potentialities Dr. Henneman said. He added it will only help dwarfs whose own glands are failing to produce enough hormones. There are perhaps 5,000 to 10,000 such men, women and children in this country.

The hormone will not help persons dwarfed because of one of several other causes.

May Help Many

It might help many children who aren't growing as fast or as tall as might be desired. X-ray measurement of the skeleton can tell at an early age how tall a child is likely to grow. Those who would be embarrassingly short might be helped. Dr. Henneman said, but the hormone "won't make anyone grow as tall as he wishes or produce basketball players par excellence."

Scientists can't make growth hormones artificially. It has to come from the pituitary gland from humans or monkeys. Growth hormones from beef cattle does not work in humans, Dr. Henneman told science writers during an American Cancer Assn. tour of research centers. Friday's visit was to Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Human pituitaries are collected

More Shakeups Seen In Russia Under New Head

MOSCOW (UP)—The Kremlin Friday reshuffled the Soviet parliamentary leadership in a move indicating still bigger shakeups to come under new Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Mitchell, who himself is credited with shortening the development of the H-bomb by a year, made the changes in a speech before the National Association of Women's Deans and Counsellors.

Has Had Stormy Career

The speech was in line with Condon's often stormy career. During World War II he worked on the Manhattan Project which produced the atomic bomb and in 1945 he was appointed director of the Commerce Department's Bureau of Standards. Three years later, however, the House Un-American Activities Committee called Condon "one of the weakest links in our atomic security."

Condon resigned from the Bureau of Standards in 1951. He was given security clearance by the Defense and Commerce departments and the Atomic Energy Commission, but quit a post as research director for the Corning glass works in 1954 after

Scientist Warns Of Bomb Dangers

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Atomic scientist Edward U. Condon predicted Friday that many thousands of persons will die in agony because of poisons released by hydrogen bomb tests.

Condon, head of Washington University's physics department and a controversial figure in the field of atomic science, said the deaths by bone cancer and leukemia would stem from tests which have already taken place.

He accused Dr. Edward Teller, known as the "father of the hydrogen bomb," and government officials of hiding the facts about H-bomb poisons through "repressive and diversionary tactics."

Condon, who himself is credited with shortening the development of the H-bomb by a year, made the changes in a speech before the National Association of Women's Deans and Counsellors.

LECTURES GOLDWATER

'Smear' Tactics

WASHINGTON — Walter Reuther threw a "smear" charge. One of the four was purported at Sen. Goldwater. Reuter, to be Jess Ferrazza, now an administrative assistant to Emil Mazey, the UAW's secretary-treasurer. Goldwater displayed the picture in questioning whether the UAW was as opposed to violence as Reuther said it was.

Reuther, red-haired president of the United Auto Workers, charged up when Goldwater produced a photograph of four men beating another man during the 1946 Ford strike. His voice rising to a shout, the union leader told the senator he had to protest: "when you try to smear our union, when you get in isolated picture."

The outburst occurred at a hearing of the Senate Rackets Committee, which is winding up a probe of the UAW strike against the Kohler Co., Kohler, Wis., plumbing equipment makers.

For almost two days Reuther had been a quiet and affable witness. His blast at Goldwater, an old political enemy, perked up the well-filled hearing room. At one point the exchange brought a burst of applause.

Goldwater's picture, Reuther said, did not reflect that unionists were beaten up by "gangsters" hired by Harry Bennett, then head of the Ford plant police.

"They beat us up," Reuther said. "The police wouldn't protect us. ... we had to defend ourselves. Sure that was wrong. But how did we get into that sort of thing?"

Bennett, Reuther swore, hired "thousands of gangsters," including men just paroled from prison. Four of them worked him over and he learned that one of them had said "There was nothing to examine the key Louisiana personnel in it. Mr. Bennett Public Service Commission will give us that as an assignment."

Hirsch wound up his second day on the witness stand. He is expected to finish Saturday, when hearings will recess until next month while Southern Bell attorney Raburn Monroe prepares to cross-examine the key Louisiana personnel in it. Mr. Bennett Public Service Commission will give us that as an assignment."

"You're looking at a man who thinks the company could be beaten." He said gunmen hired by Goldwater's picture by Mrs. Edsel Ford and others in the family, and "thank God" for that.

Hirsch computed the company's Louisiana operations on the basis of a theoretical 45 per cent debt ratio instead of the existing 33.5 per cent.

This is the same basis used in a 1956 case when the commission ordered Southern Bell to reduce long distance rates in Louisiana 20 per cent and pay state tax bills from a dime to a nickel.

The rates were upheld by the State Supreme Court.

When Monroe challenged Hirsch's calculations, commission Wis., grocery stores in which Wisconsin Circuit Judge F. W. Schleicher exploded:

"We can't seem to get you to sing that the Supreme Court has accepted this principle of ratemaking. You still try to use the straight line method."

Monroe snapped back the Supreme Court had approved the rates, not the method of making them.

Strike On Project Is Mystery

A one-man strike — which never was clearly explained — yesterday tied up construction of the new Ouachita Parish High school building.

Although bad weather had held up the school's construction considerably, one of the few days of clear weather was also lost when all craft members refused to cross the one-man picket line.

Union officials could not be reached during the day for any explanation of the reason for the strike, and were still unavailable for comment late last night.

One person at the scene said that the lone striker was "soliciting members for the laborers' local."

Uncertain

A spokesman for the general contractor, J. A. Harper of Crowley, said that he did not know if the workers were unionized and added that people are not questioned as to union membership when they are hired.

"If we need somebody, we hire them. It's against the law for us to do otherwise," the spokesman added.

Earlier Reuther had advised the Senate committee to let the country's unions do their own house-cleaning when communism or corruption is uncovered.

Harper received an anonymous phone call Thursday afternoon that a picket line would go up the following day. Foreman W. A. Smith could find no basis for the call. Yesterday, officials of the construction firm could not reach proper union officials who could clarify the purpose of the trip.

The witnesses testified that Mrs. Belanger accused her husband of running with other women.

Lloyd Buquet, another tavern operator, said he had been playing cards with Belanger before the argument began and he and his wife left after the slapping incident.

then fled in a station wagon. Two miles away he put a bullet into his own head.

Said Miss Watson, "All clubs

the planting of a plot in the forest in memory of a deceased member, should be present. These clubs should also notify the deceased member's family of the event and extend to them an invitation."

She said the dedication will be on La. Route 28, west of Natchitoches at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Signs and road guides will aid in directing persons to the forest ceremony, she explained.

Alexandria Mayor George Bowden will welcome the group. Miss Watson will greet the clubs and O. Otto Lindh, of the U. S. Forestry service headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., will address the meeting.

Rushed to St. Francis Hospital were Dennis Moody, 30, of 1302 Bailey St., West Monroe, driver of the car, and his brother, Ernest Moody, 31, of Route 1, West Monroe.

Taken to the Ruston hospital was who suffered a laceration of the left eye lid. He was hospitalized and X-rays will be taken today to determine extent of his injuries.

The mishap occurred shortly after 5 p.m., on the same curve where a woman motorist was burned to death a few weeks ago following a crash.

All three men were brought to the Arcadia hospital immediately after the wreck. Guy was then transferred to the Ruston hospital and the other two men were brought here by Congers ambulance.

St. Francis Hospital officials said that Ernest Moody suffered a severe laceration to his right ear and a bruised forehead. He was hospitalized. Dennis Moody

tration complained of pains in his neck and X-rays were being made last night. Sixteen acts will be presented by members of Tau Chapter in Arcadia and were on their in Winnfield, as their first full

LECTURES GOLDWATER

'Smear' Tactics

WASHINGTON — Walter Reuther threw a "smear" charge at Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) Friday and then lectured him on the rough-and-tumble philosophy of labor warfare.

Reuther, red-haired president of the United Auto Workers, flared up when Goldwater produced a photograph of four men beating another man during the 1941 Ford strike at Detroit.

One of the four was purported to be Jess Ferrazza, now an administrative assistant to Emil Mazey, the UAW's secretary-treasurer. Goldwater displayed the picture in questioning whether the UAW was as opposed to violence as Reuther said it was. His voice rising to a shout, the union leader told the senator he had to protest "when you try to smear our union when you get in isolated picture."

The outburst occurred at a hearing of the Senate Rackets Committee, which is winding up a probe of the UAW strike against the Kohler Co., Kohler, Wis., plumbing equipment makers.

For almost two days Reuther had been a quiet and affable witness. His blast at Goldwater, an old political enemy, perked up the well-filled hearing room. At one point the exchange brought a burst of applause.

Goldwater's picture, Reuther said, did not reflect that unionists were beaten up by "gangsters" hired by Harry Bennett, then head of the Ford plant police.

"They beat us up," Reuther said. "The police wouldn't protect us . . . we had to defend ourselves. Sure that was wrong. But how did we get into that sort of thing?"

Bennett, Reuther swore, hired "thousands of gangsters," including men just paroled from prison. Four of them worked him over with blackjacks, Reuther continued, and he learned that one of them had said "There was nothing personal in it. Mr. Bennett gave us that as an assignment."

"You're looking at a man who was shot," Reuther told Goldwater. He said gunmen hired by management did the shooting but did not say what management.

"You get a picture of Walter Reuther beating someone and I'll get a dozen of Walter Reuther being beaten," he said.

Reuther went on to say Bennett had been eliminated from the Ford picture by Mrs. Edsel Ford and others in the family, and "thank God" for that.

Goldwater listened impassively to the flow of words. Then, as Reuther appeared to be pausing for breath, he cut in with: "I think you're right. Let's get up to date."

It was then that the spectators applauded.

Reuther and Goldwater also disagreed about Kohler strikers refusing to patronize Sheboygan, Wis., grocery stores in which Wisconsin Circuit Judge F. W. Schlichting had an interest. Schlichting had sentenced a UAW man to prison on charges growing out of a strike incident.

Goldwater suggested this was applying pressure or punishment on a judge for making a decision the UAW considered unfavorable, and trying to influence future court decisions.

Reuther said the strikers "were acting like ordinary people do when they are agitated."

Earlier Reuther had advised the Senate committee to let the country's unions do their own house-cleaning when communism or corruption is uncovered.

REUTHER TALKS BEFORE TESTIFYING—Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers Union, chats with Sen. Irving Ives (R-NY) prior to taking the witness stand yesterday before the Senate Racket Committee. The UAW head said he agreed with suggestions that organized labor should come up with concrete recommendations for legislation to curb corruption in labor ranks. "I agree we ultimately must get out of the area of noble generalizations," he told the senators. (AP Wirephoto)

Strike On Project Is Mystery

A one-man strike — which never was clearly explained — yesterday tied up construction of the new Ouachita Parish High school building.

Although bad weather had held up the school's construction considerably, one of the few days of clear weather was also lost when all craft members refused to cross the one-man picket line.

Union officials could not be reached during the day for any explanation of the reason for the strike, and were still unavailable for comment late last night.

One person at the scene said that the lone striker was "soliciting members for the laborers' local."

Uncertain A spokesman for the general contractor, J. A. Harper of Crowley, said that he did not know if the workers were unionized, and added that people are not questioned as to union membership when they are hired.

"If we need somebody, we hire him. It's against the law for us to do otherwise" the spokesman added.

Reuther said the strikers "were acting like ordinary people do when they are agitated."

Earlier Reuther had advised the Senate committee to let the country's unions do their own house-cleaning when communism or corruption is uncovered.

2 Transferred
Pen At Angola

Two men were transferred to the state prison at Angola yesterday to begin sentences totaling 16 years, Sheriff Bailey Grant announced.

A. V. Mixon, 22-year-old Negro begins a 15-year term for aggravated burglary and Kenneth Patterson, 29, starts a one-year sentence for theft by check, Grant said.

Ouachita Deputy Bell escorted the men to Angola.

Brings Injury
To Three Men

Two West Monroe men and a 24-year-old Alabama man were injured yesterday afternoon, when they were involved in an auto collision two miles east of Arcadia on highway 80.

Rushed to St. Francis Hospital were Dennis Moody, 30, of 1302 Bailey St., West Monroe, driver of the car, and his brother, Ernest Moody, 31, of Route 1, West Monroe.

Taken to the Ruston hospital was Benny R. Guy of Vincent, Ala., who suffered a laceration of the left eye lid. He was hospitalized and X-rays will be taken today to determine extent of his injuries.

St. Francis Hospital officials said that Ernest Moody suffered a severe laceration to his right ear and a bruised forehead. He was hospitalized. Dennis Moody complained of pains in his neck and X-rays were being made last night.

The Moodys had been working in Arcadia and were on their way to Monroe when the wreck occurred.

The witnesses testified that Mrs. Belanger accused her husband of running with other women.

Lloyd Buquet, another tavern operator, said he had been playing cards with Belanger before the argument began and he and his wife left after the slapping incident.

Woman Charged In Murder Of Her Husband

HOUMA, La. — A 24-year-old woman was booked with manslaughter Friday in connection with the gunshot slaying of her tavern operator husband.

Amos Belanger, 32, was fatally wounded at the Pumpkin Shell, which he operated. Witnesses at a coroner's inquest said Belanger was shot by his wife after an argument during which each slapped the other.

Set Forest
Dedication
For Sunday

MANGHAM (Special) — Miss Ethel Watson, state president of women's clubs, last night extended an invitation to area clubwomen to attend the Memorial Forest Dedication at Natchitoches this Sunday.

Friends said Lt. Col. Luis Joaquin Villar, commander of an engineering unit, and Ernesto Alberto Dodo, civil secretary of the Uruguayan Fencing Federation, had a dispute involving Villar's wife.

After their duel was stopped, Villar went to Dodo's home, shot him to death, wounded Dodo's wife when she tried to intervene, then fled in a station wagon. Two miles away he put a bullet into his own head.

Miss Watson said, "All clubs who have donated money toward the planting of a plot in the forest in memory of a deceased member, should be present. These clubs should also notify the deceased member's family of the event and extend to them an invitation."

She said the dedication will be on La. 28, west of Natchitoches at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Signs and road guides will aid in directing persons to the forest ceremony, she explained.

Police announced yesterday that four white juvenile boys had admitted staging a suicide hoax here Thursday night.

Identity of the youths was not disclosed.

About 10 p.m. Thursday night a shirt, blue jeans, and shoes were found near the center of the old bridge. With the clothing was a suicide note, police said.

An investigation continued into the night, and the four boys were taken in custody yesterday morning by city juvenile officers.

Authorities released the boys to their parents, but all will appear in juvenile court, police said.

Charles Lightsey, 19, yesterday admitted to the theft of a pistol from a home here. City Police said.

Lightsey was jailed here Thursday day for carrying a concealed weapon and disturbing the peace, officers previously disclosed. He listed Fairbanks as his address.

Asst. Chief George Wood said yesterday the confession to the pistol theft resulted from further investigation after Lightsey's first arrest.

Officials first revealed that Lightsey had been apprehended after a Ouachita Parish High School official reported the man was creating a disturbance adjacent to the school property. The arrest occurred at 300 S. Grand St. about 10:30 a.m. Thursday, police said.

In addition to original charges of carrying a concealed weapon, and disturbing the peace, police lodged a charge of burglary against Lightsey. Police charged that Lightsey took a .32 caliber revolver from a residence at 115 Texas Ave. Two watches were also reported missing, police said.

Lightsey was transferred to the parish jail late yesterday.

Rehearings On Eight Racial Cases Denied

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals Friday denied rehearings in eight segregation cases previously decided in favor of the Negro plaintiffs.

At the same time, a motion was made in federal district court to implement a ruling that segregation in New Orleans city schools is unconstitutional. Rehearings were denied in the following suits:

1. The case against the New Orleans City Park Improvement Assn., in which Negroes were granted the right by U. S. district court to use facilities of the park.

2. The case in which the court declared unconstitutional state and city laws requiring segregated seating on street cars and buses.

3. The Orleans Parish school board case in which the board has been ordered by the district court to desegregate public schools "with all deliberate speed."

4. Three cases involving admission of Negroes to Louisiana State University, Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond, Southwestern Louisiana Institute at Lafayette, and McNeese State College at Lake Charles.

5. Two civil rights cases involving the registration of Negro voters in Ouachita Parish. These two cases were decided by the appeals court in favor of the Negroes who contended their civil rights were violated when their names were purged from the voter registration list.

In the motion filed Friday, attorneys for the Negro plaintiffs in the New Orleans school board case asked for a judgment on the pleadings.

Judge Rules Against Line In Air Crash

of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Schnorbus, Houston, Tex., two other victims.

In his findings of fact, Judge Christenberry said that periodic progress reports on the competency of the co-pilot of the crashed plane made to the airline and kept in its records described him as "completely incompetent" and "dull — below average in radio technique and knowledge of operating procedures." The reports also described him as "no good in instrument weather."

The court identified the co-pilot only as "Stettner." The death list of the plane gave the co-pilot's name as C. T. Stettner, 38, Miami.

The judge, in his findings, also said that unlike other airlines, National did not maintain its own meteorological department and said dispatchers in its flight control office in Miami, Fla., were responsible for keeping flights informed of weather conditions. He said the dispatchers were not trained in meteorology.

Of the two dispatchers responsible for the safety of the flight, the court said, one believed turbulent weather on a projected flight was not important in respect to the safety of the flight.

The other dispatcher, Judge Christenberry continued, was not familiar with the official U. S. Weather Bureau definition of "severe turbulence" and also held the opinion the existence of low pressure areas and turbulence on a projected flight was unimportant, and also was not aware of the airline's established rule against dispatching flights into areas of known severe turbulence.

The judge quoted the weather bureau definition of severe turbulence: "Rare. Usually impossible to control aircraft. May cause structural damage."

According to the court's findings, the flight which preceded the ill-fated one from Tampa to New Orleans met severe turbulence along with terrific head and cross winds, hail and rain.

"The plane was buffeted and pitched," the findings stated. The captain of that flight testified he was able to hold within 1,000 feet of his assigned altitude with difficulty. He described the conditions as "some of the worst turbulence he had ever experienced." It was said the same storm had intensified when the ill-fated flight reached the area.

Officials in Monroe said that the Missouri-Pacific freight had left the Twin Cities at 1:40 p.m., southbound for Alexandria.

A son, Woodrow Kirkland, who was summoned from Alexandria, revealed that the extent of injury from the concussion was not certain late last night.

Farm Prices Go Up During Month

point since April 1955. A month earlier prices were at 83 per cent of parity.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

While the 87 per cent level attained on March 15 was still below the 94 per cent which obtained when the administration began.

Benson called the jump in farm prices "highly gratifying."

"This upsurge, though partly seasonal, is evidence of the underlying strength of the farm segment of our national economy," he said.

Aside from the price report, there were these other developments today bearing upon the economic recession:

1. The big three of the American aluminum industry cut the price of primary aluminum from 26 to 24 cents a pound. This action was taken by Aluminum Co. of America, Kaiser Aluminum & Sales, Inc., and Reynolds Metal Co. Aluminum, Ltd., of Canada announced Thursday it would cut prices about two cents a pound in the world markets, leaving its price program for the United States to be announced later.

2. The House Appropriations Committee approved a proposal by the administration to speed up the spending of $40 million dollars on government equipment and supplies. But the Democratic-led committee questioned whether the money could be spent as fast as planned and whether it would go very far to halt the recession.

3. The committee, approving a $3,216,988,539 appropriation to run the Agriculture Department in the next fiscal year, rapped the Eisenhower farm policies. It said the plight of farmers has worsened under the administration, and it called for action "to bolster farm income at the market place."

4. The administration's plan for a 50 per cent extension of the period in which jobless persons draw unemployment compensation came under critical fire before the House Ways and Means Committee. Some members expressed the feeling this emergency program might never be terminated; others saw an extension of federal activity into the states, with possible political implications.

But Secretary of Labor Mitchell urged fast action on the program, saying the number of unemployed who have exhausted their benefits is growing.

out agreement on inspection and other disarmament measures. The cause of a weapons ban is extremely popular among the people of Western Europe and the Orient, particularly in pro-western Japan.

At Friday's Supreme Soviet sessions, it was revealed that five senior members of the last Presidium (inner circle) of the parliament were dropped from the 32-member body.

The two officers are quoted as saying that as the patrol car reached a point about one mile from the western city limits of Tallulah, Gundy lunged forward and attempted to attack Rogan. Martin stopped the car immediately, and the two officers, upon seeing a knife in Gundy's hand, drew their .38 caliber service revolvers and fired simultaneously. One shot struck Gundy in the chest, and the other in the left shoulder. Death apparently was instantaneous.

Sheriff Hester was notified immediately and rushed to the scene where he said he found the Negro dead, and Rogan suffering from a slash in the left forearm. A switchblade knife with a five-inch blade was found on the floor of the car, the officers said.

the sheriff's department, she asked the Negro to take her to the nearest taxicab stand.

Assistant District Attorney Adams said, "I expect an affidavit from the city police at an early date, and from the nature of the evidence we now have, it can be expected that the matter will be presented to the next grand jury."

SIGNS OPTION

Next Fight For Robinson Will Be Decided By IBC

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray from his grueling battle with Carl Robinson has another fight, he men Basilio at Chicago last Tuesday, will make it for the International day.

Boxing Club and receive 42% per cent of all receipts for his efforts.

The renowned middleweight champion still won't say, however, if he will fight again. The next. At the same time, George Gantford, longtime advisor of 35-year-old New Yorker is resting Robinson, denied that Sugar Ray had demanded $600,000 for a return with Basilio for his next fight.

"Any stories like that are nonsense," said Gantford. "When it comes time for Robinson to discuss his next fight, he will do it with Jim Norris (president of the IBC) and no one else."

Markson explained that Robinson signed the option in return for receiving a deferred compensation contract from the IBC for his fight with Basilio.

The IBC's contract was made with Robinson Theatrical and Sports Promotions, Inc., which licenses Sugar Ray's services. The corporation setup enabled Robinson to spread out his earnings.

For his last fight Robinson earned about $225,000. He collects half immediately and gets the remainder over a four-year period. Robinson received 30 per cent of all receipts for the Chicago contest. For the first one last Sept. 23 when he lost the crown to Basilio, Sugar Ray got 45 per cent for a total of about $50,000.

"We haven't talked with Ray about a return with Carmen Basilio or any other fight," said Markson. "He was exhausted after beating Basilio in Chicago and he didn't want to talk about another fight then. He doesn't know yet if he wants to fight again. We haven't talked to him since the fight."

North's Aces Pin 111-109 Loss On South

Raleigh, N.C. — Jack Parr of Kansas State tapped in a missed shot with one second left to play in overtime to give the North All-Stars a 111-109 victory over the South All-Stars in the first annual North-South game Friday night.

The North, trailing most of the way, had tied the regulation game at 99-all on a jump shot by Don Ohl of Illinois with three seconds on the clock.

Coach Joe Lapchick's Yankees went to work in the overtime and took a 103-100 lead after two minutes. But Tommy Kearns of North Carolina, Tom Hobbs of Florida and Temple Tucker of Rice hit to deadlock the score at 109-all with 52 seconds remaining.

Working for one shot, Ohl missed a one-hander from 15 feet out, but the 6-9 Parr tapped in the rebound for the win.

Ohl was named the game's most valuable player by vote of the press. A disappointing crowd of 1,600 watched the thriller in Reynolds Coliseum.

AT Sarasota, Fla. — The Boston Red Sox won their sixth straight exhibition baseball game Friday, an 8-5 conquest of the Cincinnati Reds 4-3. Cincinnati's Frank Robinson slammed the first homer of the year out of Payne Park.

Boston took an early lead against Hal Jeffcoat, then sewed up the game against Hersh Freedman with three runs in the fifth, with Pete Runnels triple the big blow.

Sammy White's double drove home two earned runs in the seventh.

Robinson's homer, his fourth of the spring, led off the fourth against southpaw bonus boy Frank Baumgardner who gave up three hits and two runs in his most impressive hurling of the year. The Reds limped on left-hander Tom Borland, on loan from Minneapolis, in the eighth before Bob Porterfield set the side down in order in the ninth.

AT Sarasota, Fla. — The Baltimore Orioles broke out of their hitting slump Friday whipping the Chicago Cubs 14-7 with a 15-hit attack that included nine extra base blows.

Jack Harshman, the starting and winning pitcher, knocked a single and the game's only homer, a three-run blast in the fourth.

Second baseman Jerry Kindall got two singles, the only Cubs to three runs in the fourth, capitalizing on the right-hander's wildness. Three walks, a sacrifice fly and Frank Ernsta's pinch double accounted for the runs.

Can Trust, owned by the Hasty Tock and Jack Tock, was led by Hasty Tock and Jack Tock, by a neck in the second, however, scoring five runs before Mock came in to close the door.

Centenary clubbed Mock, who went three innings Thursday, for two tallies in the third, one in the fourth, three in the fifth and another in the sixth.

Northeast, meanwhile, was having its trouble with curveballing Gardner. Mock managed a hit in the second and Ralph Ward trying a drag bunt, tapped one between short and third for a single in the third. That was all until the ninth when Don Ballard, subbing for Ward, victim of a spike wound, opened the inning with a double. Gardner induced Faye Thurmon to fly to right, walked Brooks and got Rushing to fly to center, Ballard was off second on Rushing's fly and they forced him for a double play to retire the

Next Fight For Robinson
Will Be Decided By IBC

NEW YORK (P)—If Sugar Ray Robinson has another fight, he means Basilio at Chicago last Tuesday will make it for the International Boxing Club and receive 42½ per cent of all receipts for his efforts.

The renowned middleweight champion still won't say, however, if he will fight again. The 37-year-old New Yorker is resting from his grueling battle with Car- Robinson, denied that Sugar Ray had demanded $600,000 for a return with Basilio for his next fight.

"Any stories like that are nonsense," said Gainford. "When it comes time for Robinson to discuss his next fight, he will do it with Jim Norris (president of the IBC) and no one else."

Markson explained that Robinson signed the option in return for receiving a deferred compensation contract from the IBC for his fight with Basilio.

The IBC's contract was made with Robinson Theatrical and Sports Promotions, Inc., which licenses Sugar Ray's services. The corporation setup enabled Robinson to spread out his earnings.

For his last fight Robinson earned about $225,000. He collects half immediately and gets the remainder over a four-year period. Robinson received 30 per cent of all receipts for the Chicago contest. For the first one last Sept. 23 when he lost the crown to Basilio, Sugar Ray got 45 per cent for a total of about $50,000.

"We haven't talked with Ray about a return with Basilio or any other fight," said Markson. "He was exhausted after beating Basilio in Chicago and he didn't want to talk about another fight then. He doesn't know if he wants to fight again. We haven't talked to him since the fight."

BRAVES ROUT CHISOK

TAMPA, Fla. (P)—Bob Rush, the Chicago Cubs' gift to the Milwaukee Braves, Friday became the first pitcher this spring to go the route for the world champions, scattering five hits in an 11-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Rush advanced a strong claim for a starting job as he fanned four, walked four and finished impressively by retiring the last 10 White Sox to face him.

The tall, bearded right-hander, a 10-year veteran with the Cubs until his surprise trade to Milwaukee last December, has been solved for only four runs—all by the White Sox—in 19 innings of Grapefruit League pitching.

Early Wynn, who matched Rush at the start, held a 2-1 advantage through five innings. But the Braves lashed the ex-Cleveland hurler for four runs, three on a homer by Joe Adcock.

ST. PETERSBURG (P)—Whitey Herzog's second two-run homer carried the Washington Senators to a 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees in the ninth inning Friday.

Mickey Mantle suffered his first injury of the year when he pulled up lame and had to quit in the third inning. He sustained a "charley horse" in the left leg while grounding into a double play in the first inning. The team slugger played at field until the third, then quit for treatment. The injury is not believed to be serious.

The Yankees picked up a 4-0 lead by the fourth against Ralph Lumenti, bonus lefthander.

Art Ditmar worked five frames for the Yanks, yielding two runs in the fifth of Lumenti's scratch single and Whitey Herzog's Homer over the center field wall.

Bob Grim gave up the tying runs in the eighth. Grim walked reliever Russ Kemmerer before Herzog out ran an inside-the-park home run in the last inning.

Al Pilarcik continued to pace

Bird batsmen, collecting a single, double and triple in three trips and knocking in a run. He now has 25 hits in 51 at bats in the spring exhibition season.

Jack Harshman, the starting pitcher, knocked a single and the game's only homer, a three-run blast in the fourth.

TIGERS EDGE DODGERS

LAKEWOOD, Fla. (P)—Billy Martin beat out Jackie Collum's throw to the plate with one out in the bottom half of the ninth as the Detroit Tigers edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 12-11 Friday in a wild slugfest.

Six home runs, including Carl Furillo's four-run clout in the seventh inning, figured in the 33 hits totalized by the two clubs.

Red Wilson accounted for five

Tiger runs with a three-run home in the third inning, a solo blast in the fifth and a single in the eighth.

Al Kaline, Felipe Montemayor, and Norm Larker also poked out circuit blasts.

Harry Byrd, Detroit's fifth pitcher was credited with the victory. It was Detroit's sixth triumph in 17 exhibition contests and their second victory in the last nine games.

Collum, who went in for the

Stroke Fatal To Baseball,
Turf Leader

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dr. Charles H. Strub, 73, a dentist whose love for sports led him to the presidency of baseball club and the development of Santa Anita racetrack, died Friday from the effects of a stroke he suffered last week.

The California-born sportsman had been reported on the way towards recovery Thursday but a blood clot in the brain resulted in his death.

Strub had been prominently associated with both baseball and racing for more than 50 years and at the time of his death was executive vice president of the Los Angeles Turf Club, operators of Santa Anita.

Mrs. Vera Wood Strub, whom he married 43 years ago, was at his bedside when he died. The Strubs had five children.

Strub, born in Hollister, Calif., was captain of the University of California baseball team in 1906 while studying dentistry. He had a brief professional baseball career in the Pacific Coast League before starting his practice.

He was brought back into baseball in 1918 as president of the San Francisco club of the PCL, retaining that post until 1938, four years after he launched Santa Anita.

Kirkland Trailing Mayes
Giants' Answer To Rivals

By JACK STEVENSON

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—San Francisco's Giants think they have the answer to opponents who don't want to give Willie Mays any good pitches to hit.

This solution, if all goes according to plan, is 23-year-old Willie Kirkland.

"Mays hit well for us last year," says Manager Bill Rigney, "but he can do even better when we can put a man up behind him who's a threat. They'll have to pitch to him then."

Off to a slow spring start, right fielder Kirkland shows the form of 1956 when he batted .293 and hit 37 home runs at Minneapolis before going into the Army for a year.

The Giants, moving from New York to the West Coast, count on Kirkland and a couple other promising rookies to move them out of the National League's second division this season.

Sixth place finishers the past two seasons, the Giants' starting line-up for April 15 could contain three newcomers — Kirkland, first baseman Orlando Cepeda and third baseman Jim Davenport.

Rigney counts also on southpaw pitcher Johnnie Antonelli returning to the form of two years ago when he won 20 games. Last season, the left hander suffered shoulder injuries and finished with a 12-18 record.

Antonelli and Ruben Gomez, the Puerto Rican right hander who was 15-13 last year, figure as two of the regular starters. Others could be Ramon Monzant from Venezuela, 19-year-old left hander Mike McCormick, or Curt Barclay, the No. 3 man of the staff last year with a 9-9 record.

Cepeda, a 20-year-old who also hails from Puerto Rico, started spring training fast and his early production included six home runs. But the big surprise was third baseman Davenport who is pressing veteran Ray Jablonski for the regular job.

Jim came to camp still on the roster of the Giants' Pacific Coast League affiliate — Phoenix — and the former Mississippi Southern football quarterback has impressed with his hitting and field-

"We have a much stronger team than last year," Rigney declares, "and if our pitching comes through we should finish higher. A lot depends on how the rookies perform for us."

The infield starters appear to be Cepeda at first, Danny O'Connell at second, Daryl Spencer at short and Davenport or Jablonski at third.

Big man in the outfield, or on the whole team for that matter, is Mays who hit .333 and 35 home runs last year.

The veteran Hank Sauer should open in right field with Bobby Thomson to spell him. Whitey Lockman, oldest Giant in point of service with the team, can be counted on to play in the outfield, if needed, or take back his first base job if Cepeda falters. Valmy Thomas will be the catcher.

Rigney terms his big need to be left handed hitting strength. Southpaws on the roster are Lockman, Kirkland and the pinch-hitting ace of former years, Dusty Rhodes.

MILLSAPS WINS 2

Millsaps Grammar School took a twin bill from Ouachita yesterday, the girls winning 23-4, and the boys, 20-3. Ware won the girls game and Kennedy was the loser. Heard gained credit for the boys he will confer with Tom H. Underwood, utilities commission manager, on the matter Monday.

But he explained that he had been unable to determine if enough sportmen were interested in playing night tennis to warrant the cost of the lights.

"I have talked to several of the city's most ardent tennis players, but so far I can't tell if we have enough people who would like to play tennis at night," McSherry said.

He explained that the project would call for three strings of lights, consisting of about 24 reflectors. The city owns one other tennis court in the southside of town.

Plans for lighted courts have been prepared, McSherry said. He pointed out that they call for the installation of a pay meter.

"The use of a court at night would cost a quarter," McSherry said. "The lights would stay on as long as somebody was there to play."

But he explained that funds taken in by the meters would not pay the cost of installing the lights. He said the cost would be a major item discussed with Underwood.

Arnold Palmer Fires 66 To Lead In Azalea Open

By KEN ALYTA

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Arnold Palmer birdied seven holes after three-putting the first green Friday to shoot a 66 for a one-stroke first round lead in the $15,000

Azalea Open Golf Tournament. The 28-year-old Latrobe, Pa., professional who won the St. Petersburg, Fla., Open last Sunday with a final round of 65, was one shot ahead of Dow Finster-wald of Tequesta, Fla., who was runner-up to Palmer at St. Petersburg.

Palmer, 1954 National Amateur champion who is seeking to be the first defending champion to retain his title in the Azalea Open, put together nine hole scores of 34-32. Finsterwald, who has finished second or tied for second 15 times since January 1956, carded 33-34 over the par 72 Cape Fear Country Club course a 6,651 yarder.

Sharing third place at 69, three strokes off the leader, were big George Bayer of San Gabriel, Calif.; Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., the No. 2 money winner this year, and Bob Goaly who quit a Daireen, Conn., club job to make the tour.

Five others in the field of 116 were in with 70s, two under par. Among them were Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., who defends his masters crown next week at Augusta, Ga.; Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., who chipped in twice and a third time ran the ball from off the green into the cup 30 feet away with his putter; two young, hungry pros, Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., and Tony Lema of Napa, Calif., and Bill Nary, veteran from Albuquerque, N.M.

In all, 13 men broke par and seven others equalled it on a day that saw the sun finally win a week-long battle to come out from behind the clouds. Rain and cold weather of a rugged winter took its toll on the course which was below the condition normal for this time of the year.

During the showing of the fifth round in which Robinson clipped Basilio with a right upper-cut that started Carmen's left eye puffing, the ex-champ's handlers writhed silently in their seats. But in the 15th, DeJohn blurted, "Look at that Robinson kidney punch."

Even today, Carmen apologized to Netro and me and said he was sorry he let us down—he didn't think he fought a good fight," said DeJohn. "Any other guy would have jumped out of the ring."

The 18½-minute fight film showed parts of eight rounds, the 1st, 3rd, 5th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 13th and 15th.

"That movie proves the fight could have gone to Carmen, like the referee had it," said Netro.

Basilio still is recuperating in Chicago's Wesley Memorial Hospital after treatment of the injured eye which is not expected to affect his fighting career.

Netro said Basilio would stay at the hospital for a "couple of more days." Both Netro and DeJohn said they had given no thought yet to a rematch with Robinson or whether Basilio might try to regain his abdicated welter crown.

At the hospital, Basilio's physician reported the swelling of the lids on the affected eye continues to recede and "the hemorrhages around the eye are absorbing."

A hospital spokesman said it would be five or six days before Basilio could be discharged.

Pirates Send Swanson To Minor Camp

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates made their first roster cut Friday, sending eight players to the minor league camp at Jacksonville Beach, Fla., for further assignment.

Those released were pitchers Bill Bell, Art Swanson and Jack Lamabe, outfielders Howard Goss and Emil Panko, infielders Dick Stuart, Pritchard and Ken Hamlin.

Hawks' Charley Share Suffering Fracture Of Jaw

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Charley Share, 6-11 center of the playoff-bound St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Assn., received a fractured lower jaw bone and damage to four teeth in a collision with Wally Dukes of Detroit.

On top of it all, Share was charged with a foul on the play in the game won Thursday night by the Hawks 120-96.

The Hawks took off by air for Boston but Share remained behind for treatment. He will rejoin his teammates in time for Saturday's opening playoff game against the Celtics. It's a best-of-seven series for the world championship.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—San Francisco's Giants think they have the answer to opponents who don't want to give Willie Mays any good pitches to hit.

This solution, if all goes according to plan, is 23-year-old Willie Kirkland.

"Mays hit well for us last year," says Manager Bill Rigney, "but he can do even better when we can put a man up there who's a threat. They'll have to pitch to him then."

Off to a slow spring start, right fielder Kirkland shows the form of 1956 when he batted .293 and hit 37 home runs at Minneapolis before going into the Army for a year.

The Giants, moving from New York to the West Coast, count on Kirkland and a couple other promising rookies to move them out of the National League's second division this season.

Sixth place finishers the past two seasons, the Giants' starting line-up for April 15 could contain three newcomers — Kirkland, first baseman Orlando Cepeda and third baseman Jim Davenport.

Rigney counts also on southpaw pitcher Johnny Antonelli returning to the form of two years ago when he won 20 games. Last season, the left hander suffered shoulder injuries and finished with a 12-18 record. Antonelli and Ruben Gomez, the Puerto Rican right hander, who was 15-13 last year, figure as two of the regular starters. Others could be Ramon Monzant from Venezuela, 19-year-old left hander Mike McCormick, or Curt Barclay, the No. 3 man of the staff last year with a 9-9 record.

Cepeda, a 20-year-old who also hails from Puerto Rico, started spring training fast and his early production included six home runs. But the big surprise was third baseman Davenport who is pressing veteran Ray Jablonski for the regular job.

Rigney terms his big need to be left-handed hitting strength. Southpaws on the roster are Lockman, Kirkland and the pinch-hitting ace of former years, Dusty Rhodes.

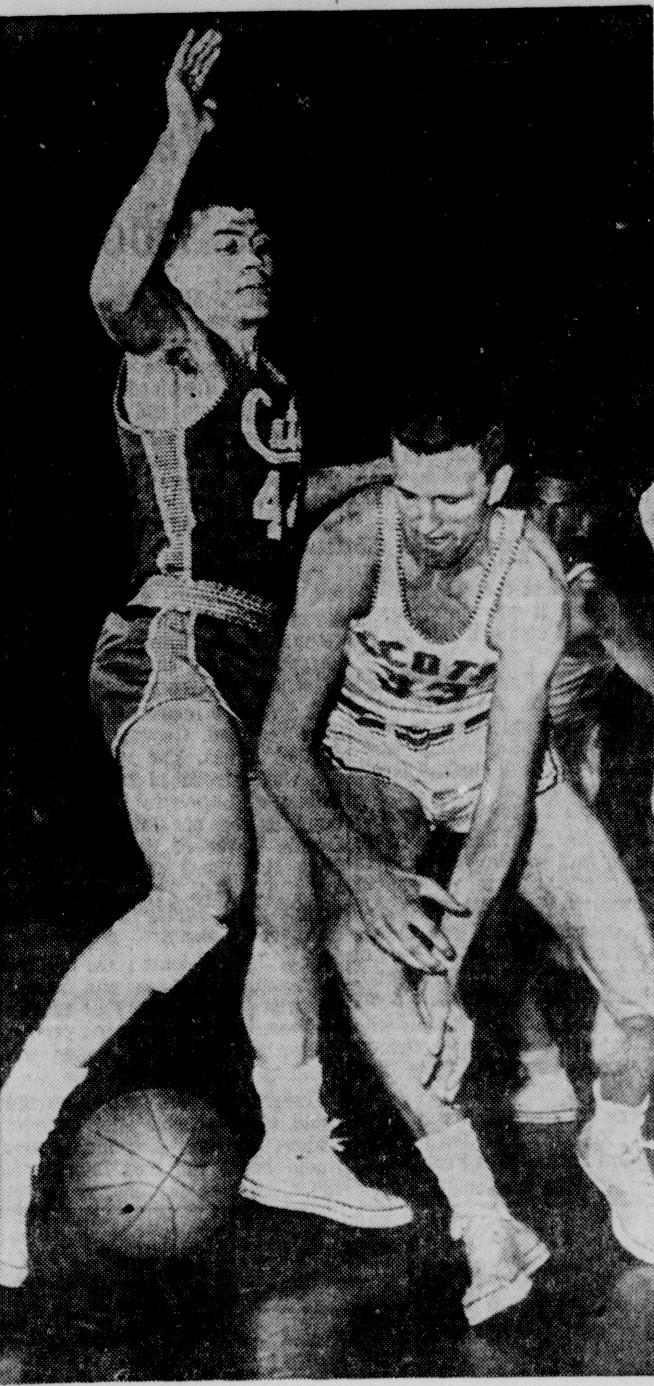

"We have a much stronger team than last year," Rigney declares, "and if our pitching comes through we should finish higher. A lot depends on how the rookies perform for us."

The infield starters appear to be Cepeda at first, Daryl Spencer at short and Davenport or Jablonski at third.

Big man in the outfield, or on the whole team for that matter, is Mays who hit .333 and 35 home runs last year.

The veteran Hank Sauer should open in right field with Bobby Thomson to spell him. Whitey Lockman, oldest Giant in point of service with the team, can be counted on to play in the outfield, if needed, or take back his first base job if Cepeda falters. Valmy Thomas will be the catcher.

TENNIS, ANYONE?

Forsythe Courts May Get Lights

H. W. McSherry, commission of finance and utilities, yesterday said he was investigating the feasibility of erecting lights on the tennis courts in Forsythe Park.

McSherry, who was unable to install the lights last spring, said he will confer with Tom H. Underwood, utilities commission manager, on the matter Monday.

But he explained that he had been unable to determine if enough sportsmen were interested in playing night tennis to warrant the cost of the lights.

"I have talked to several of the city's most ardent tennis players, but so far I can't tell if we have enough people who would like to play tennis at night," McSherry said.

He explained that the project would call for three strings of lights, consisting of about 24 reflectors. The city owns one other tennis court in the southside of town.

Plans for lighted courts have been prepared, McSherry said. He pointed out that they call for the installation of a pay meter.

"The use of a court at night would cost a quarter," McSherry said. "The lights would stay on as long as somebody was there to play."

But he explained that funds taken in by the meters would not supplement the cost of installing the lights. He said the cost would be a major item discussed with Underwood.

NEEDED APRIL 14

Rush To Groom Park For Pels

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Electrical workers will work overtime to complete the first stages of City Park stadium lighting by April 14, the date the New Orleans Pelicans are scheduled to open their Southern Assn. baseball season here.

The Pelicans' old park has been torn down to make way for a multi-million dollar motel and the City Park Board has granted them permission to use the City Park Stadium.

However, it was necessary to change the lighting and renovate the stadium to make it suitable for baseball. It has been used exclusively for prep school track and football games.

A spokesman for the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., said it was obvious that overtime work would be necessary to complete the first stage of the lighting in time for the opening game.

He said this stage will not meet Southern Assn. standards and the Pelicans will bring in auxiliary lighting for the early season games. The second stage will be completed by May 5, the spokesman said.

Public Service, which provides electric, light and gas service in New Orleans, will pay for the lighting system out of its public improvement fund.

The work is expected to cost $215,775.

The local baseball club which showed a big drop in attendance last season, appeared ready to drop out of the Southern Assn. and transfer its franchise to another city.

However, a financial drive led by Mayor deLesseps Morrison raised about $50,000 which Morrison said would be sufficient to get the season started.

A ticket selling drive is continuing.

GIRL from Las Vegas

By ANNE ALLISON

Chapter 5

THE STORY THIS FAR: MELAINE AND JULIE LEWIS, sisters, returning from their father's funeral, were bemoaning his having spent all their mother's money. Julie particularly mourns the loss of Fairhaven, their home before their mother's death and loss of money. MR. SUTTON, the town banker, suggests Melanie leave town and forget marrying his son, JED SUTTON. Jed wires Melanie to meet him in Las Vegas to marry him. Melanie says yes. On the plane to meet Jed, Melanie meets NICK TARANTINO, a Las Vegas hotel owner who offers to help her if her plans to marry Jed fail. Jed meets her and says his family will cut off his allowance if he marries her and suggests they wait a while. Melanie goes to Nick and tells her plight. He offers her a job in his hotel as a singer.

In the firelight they faced one another. The gambler and the girl from Amesville.

"Whoever heard of a star made in Las Vegas?" Nick Tarantino mused, puffing his cigar. "Top entertainers come here from all over the world. Paris, Cairo, Berlin. Now we'll have a new twist, Melanie Lewis, The Girl from Las Vegas."

Melanie's heart was pounding.

"Are you sure I can do it, Nick?"

He sat down at the inlaid mahogany desk between them.

"Sing," he commanded.

As if she had been born for this moment, Melanie sang. Without music or piano or orchestra. When she had finished Nick was smiling. "You'll be a star, Melanie. Like I said, you've got what it takes!"

It was fabulous, she thought. Like everything else here on the desert miracle of Las Vegas.

"There's just one thing," Nick was saying, "one thing that must be understood between us." He touch her shoulder gently. "I'm not in love with you, Melanie, and I don't want you to fall in love with me. I'm a gambler, but not with hearts. Emotion a luxury I can't afford and I don't want you to be hurt."

She nodded. "I'm glad you said that, Nick, but you don't have to worry. Much as I hate to admit it, I'm still in love with Jed Sutton."

He tilted her chin, looking into the lovely young face. "Don't be, little girl. He'll break your heart."

The next two weeks were a miracle. A nightmare. Melanie was plunged into a world she had not known existed. Nick hired a voice coach and Melanie practiced four hours a day. There were fittings for the gorgeous clothes to be worn for her opening. Black velvet, Green satin, mauve sprinkled with rhinestones. Dark hair was styled and restyled until Nick was satisfied.

"This is something new for me, too," Nick told her as they lounged by the hotel's heated swimming pool one afternoon following a strenuous rehearsal. "I'm like a kid with a new toy."

"I hope it pays off," Melanie replied.

It was still like a dream to her. The rehearsals. The clothes. The lavish hotels. The crowds of people. Looking beyond the pool and the gardens she could see the purple mountain peaks presiding over all the madness which took place below.

"How about Jed Sutton?" Nick asked abruptly.

Her face clouded. "I haven't heard. Not a phone call. Not even a note . . ."

"It's just as well."

Perhaps, Melanie silently agreed, for she knew that should Jed come back to her she would not have the courage to send him away again. She had not told Nick of the sleepless nights, of the tears, of the wild hope which sprang into her heart each time the telephone rang.

Julie's letters had been upsetting too. Another secret she had kept from Nick. Julie had been horrified at the idea of her sister singing in Las Vegas. She was violently suspicious of Nick Tarantino. "What will people think?" Julie wrote in her careful backhand. "A man like that . . . a gambler . . ."

Melanie tore up the letters and continued with her new activities. Huge posters were being placed in the hotel lobby. "Melanie Lewis—the Girl from Las Vegas." Passing these, Melanie's heart skipped a beat.

It was fantastic. Had she ever walked the hated streets of Amesville? Had she ever really been there?

But it was not Jed Sutton who stood before her. It was a strange, tall, good-looking older man.

"Sorry to disappoint you, Miss Lewis. You see I'm Jed's uncle, Scott Sutton from San Francisco."

Bills Would Give Way To Close Schools

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Governor of Mississippi would be authorized to close any or all schools and state-supported colleges under bills introduced Friday in both the Senate and House.

A series of bills authorizing closing schools, obviously to forestall their integration, has been introduced in both houses. Neither house has completed action on them.

Friday's bills were the first to put the authority specifically in the hands of the governor but companion measures also newly introduced give similar authority to school district trustees.

The Senate measure was introduced by Sen. George Yarbrough of Red Banks. The House measure was introduced by Rep. Ben Hibut of Lafayette County, W. B. Hooker of Holmes County, Dennis Baker of Panola County, Leon Hannaford of Tate County, Dave Womack of Humphreys County and Buddy Newman of Issaquena County.

Gov. J. P. Coleman has told the Legislature he does not believe any move to abolish public schools and then operate them as private institutions with tax money will stand up in federal courts.

Under the bill, the governor could close schools and colleges "when, in his discretion, such would be to the best interest of the district or persons, or to the event of such closure."

FINSTERWALD CLOSE

Arnold Palmer Fires 66
To Lead In Azalea Open

By KEN ALYTA
WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Arnold Palmer birdied seven holes after three putting the first green Friday to shoot a 66 for a one-stroke lead in the $15,000 first round lead in the $15,000 one shot ahead of Dow Finster-

Azalea Open Golf Tournament. The 28-year-old Latrobe, Pa., professional who won the Sun-Petersburg, Fla., Open last Sunday with a final round of 65, was runner-up to Palmer at St. Petersburg.

Palmer, 1954 National Amateur champion who is seeking to be the first defending champion to retain his title in the Azalea Open, put together nine hole scores of 34-32. Finsterwald, who has finished second or tied for second 15 times since January 1956, carded 33-34 over the par 72 Cape Fear Country Club course a 6,651 yarder.

Sharing third place at 69, three strokes off the leader, were big George Bayer of San Gabriel, Calif.; Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., the No. 2 money winner this year, and Bob Gooley who quit a Dairen, Conn., club job to make the tour.

Five others in the field of 116 were in 70s, two under par. Among them were Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., who defends his masters' crown next week at Augusta, Ga.; Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., who chipped in twice and a third time rare the ball from off the green into the cup 30 feet away with his putter; two young, hungry pros, Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., and Tony Lema of Napa, Calif., and Bill Nary, veteran from Albuquerque, N.M.

In all, 13 men broke par and seven others equalled it on a day that saw the sun finally win a week-long battle to come out from behind the clouds. Rain and cold weather of a rugged winter took its toll on the course which was below the condition normal for this time of the year.

Even today, Carmen apologetically to Netro and me and said he was sorry he let us down," said DeJohn, referring to the showing of parts of five rounds after Basilio's left eye was puffed closed in the sixth round.

"Did you ever see such guts?" said DeJohn, referring to the showing of parts of five rounds after Basilio's left eye was puffed closed in the sixth round.

"Even today, Carmen apologetically to Netro and me and said he was sorry he fought a good fight," said DeJohn. "Any other guy would have jumped out of the ring."

The 18½-minute fight film showed parts of eight rounds, the 1st, 3rd, 5th, 8th, 10th, 11th, 13th and 15th.

"That movie proves the fight could have gone to Carmen, like the referee had it," said Netro.

"During the showing of the fifth round in which Robinson clipped Basilio with a right uppercut that started Carmen's left eye puffing, the ex-champ's handlers

at that Robinson kidney punch."

Basilio still is recuperating in Chicago's Wesley Memorial Hospital after treatment of the injured eye which is not expected to affect his fighting career.

Netro said Basilio would stay at the hospital for a "couple of more days." Both Netro and DeJohn said they had given no thought yet to a rematch with Robinson or whether Basilio might try to regain his abdicated welter weight title.

At the hospital, Basilio's physician reported the swelling of the lids on the affected eye continues to recede and the hemorrhages around the eye are absorbing."

A hospital spokesman said it would be five or six days before Basilio could be discharged.

Younger Set Picks Drip Dry Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE

YOUNG EASTER PARADES will step out in style this year, in smart suits and coats that are as practical as their play clothes.

The pre-teen crowd will find a wide selection of smart fashions in new easy-care fabrics which can be washed as easily as a gingham school dress, drip-dried and worn without ironing.

All the newest trends of the season in adult styles are incorporated in spring clothes for the junior high set. There are slick little chemise dresses, new box-jacket suits with pleated skirts, smart topcoats in the new trapeze silhouette.

Fabrics look like fine worsted or flannel, but turn out to be made of orlon, dacron or blends, which take to the washing machine with ease.

Nowadays mothers are not object to junior selections of spring suits and coats in delicate pastels, which in other days might have posed upkeep problems in dry-cleaning costs. These modern clothes can be kept spic and span with a minimum of time and trouble.

The new chemise and box-jacket styles that are sweeping the country are particularly flattering to sub-deb figures. Grown-ups may have their troubles with some of the new silhouettes, but the young-

With the new drip-dry fabrics widely available, popular colors for Easter outfits will be pale gray, beige and all the pastels. ### UTILITY BREEZEWAY

Having problems finding storage space for the home's maintenance equipment, recreational gear and sundry other indoor-outdoor gear? If closet space near the kitchen is already overcrowded, your basement out of the question, and the garage already a mess, then check your breezeway for possibilities. First, though, make sure the area "can take it." That is, it should be made of rugged, weatherproof all-purpose materials such as quarry or ceramic tile which can withstand any and all domestic use. Wall or chest-hung cabinet space can be constructed to house shovels, skis, garden tools, even laundry equipment. Make the storage attractive, though, and different. Surfacing with colorful ceramic mosaics, for example, would be a novel, exciting touch.

Defying God And Self Will Never Work Out

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: Here is another letter that will be labeled "fiction" by some of your readers. Strange how many people who read your column say "Those things don't happen." I wish they were right. My story is a sordid one, but if it will help someone, please print it. I couldn't be more ashamed.

I lived common-law with a man for 15 years. Now he has a young woman—someone fresh and attractive—like I was when he filled my head with foolishness. I've gone to visit his new "wife," and tried to make her see what she's doing to herself. But she thinks I'm spiteful and interested only in revenge.

He told her I was an alcoholic which is why he left me. Sure, I drank. Who wouldn't with what I had on my conscience? Living with a man and no ring on my finger, thrown out by my family, ignored by my friends, considered a cheap trollop by the neighbors.

I'm not blaming anyone but myself. Heaven help these women who think they can defy God and society. It never works. —ANOTHER MAGDALEN . . .

Dear Ann: My problem is a possessive mother who is determined to "protect me against the hurts of life."

At 19 she broke up my first real romance by phoning my boy friend's father and telling him to keep his son away from me. When I was 21, it happened again. I was so furious I didn't speak to her for three weeks. Now at 25, after dating a fellow for six months, I find my mother has phoned my boy friend's mother and asked that he "not bother me any more."

This fellow who is 27 refuses to call for me at home and wants nothing to do with my mother. He says she's a mental case.

My father says I should move out and lead my own life before I run out of chances to marry. My mother says I will understand how she feels when I have a daughter of my own. I'm terribly torn. What shall I do? —THE BABY

You know very well what you SHOULD do. But if you want to see it in print—here it is: Listen to your father. This "mother love" is in reality "smother love." Move now or you may never get a chance to have a daughter of your own."

Dear Ann: My husband is an electrician. We live in a friendly neighborhood—maybe TOO friendly.

A half dozen neighbors think nothing of calling my husband after dinner to "fix something." They always say "It won't take but a minute." He obliges and never sends a bill.

This may sound like a petty complaint, but I'm fed up. My husband is so tired when he comes home I don't have the nerve to ask him to hang a picture we got last Christmas. Any suggestions? —REDDY KILOMETER'S WIFE

GIRL from Las Vegas

Chapter 5

THE STORY THIS FAR: MELAINE and JULIE LEWIS, sisters, returning from their father's funeral, were bemoaning his having spent all their mother's money. Julie particularly mourns the loss of Fairhaven, their home before their mother's death and loss of money. MR. SUTTON, the town banker, suggests Melanie leave town and forget marrying his son, JED SUTTON. Jed wires Melanie to meet him in Las Vegas to marry him. Melanie says yes. On the plane to meet Jed, Melanie meets NICI FAVANTINO, a Las Vegas hotel owner who offers to help her if she plans to marry Jed. The next two weeks were a continued with her new activities. She was elated into a world she had in the hotel lobby. "Melanie Lewis, in Las Vegas." Nick Tarantino voice coach and Melanie practicing in these, Melanie's heart skipped a beat. There were fits a beat. It was fantastic. Had she ever over the world. Paris. Cairo. Berlin. For her opening. Black velvet-walked the hallowed streets of Ames. Now we'll have a new twist. A green suit, maybe sprinkled with diamonds. Had she ever really been Melanie Lewis. The Girl from Las with rhinestones. Dark hair was a mere cashier at the Bijou.

Melanie's heart was pounding, satisfied. And then suddenly the days had passed and it was opening night. "Are you sure I can do it, Nick?" "This is something new for me. I'm glad you did it." Nick told her as they lounged by the hotel's heated swimming pool of the entertainers which pool one afternoon following a headline rehearsal. "I'm like a kid with a new toy." "I hope it pays off," Melanie replied.

It was still like a dream to her. The rehearsals. The clothes. The lavish hotels. The crowds of people. Looking beyond the pool and the gardens she could see the purple mountain peaks presiding over all the madness which took place below.

"How about Jed Sutton?" Nick asked abruptly.

Her face clouded. "I haven't heard. Not a phone call. Not even a note . . ."

"It was fabulous, she thought. Like everything else here on the desert miracle of Las Vegas. Perhaps, Melanie silently agreed.

"There's just one thing," Nick said. "She knew that should Jed be singing, one thing that must come back to her she would not be understood between us." He gave the courage to send him touch her shoulder gently. "I'm away again. She had not told Nick that Nick, but you don't have to be horrified at the idea of her sister's name. Which as I hate to admit singing in Las Vegas. She was still in love with Jed Sutton, violently suspicious of Nick Tarantino. "What will people think?"

He took her chin, looking into Julie's eyes. "A man like that . . . a girl he'd break your heart gambler . . ."

Melanie tore up the letters and ready to forgive him anything in the excitement and wonder of this moment.

Her dressing table was ablaze with an outline of lights. She ran a powder puff over her nose and, laughing, turned to face the door.

But it was not Jed Sutton who stood before her. It was a stranger. Tall. Good looking. Older than Jed.

"Sorry to disappoint you, Miss Lewis. You see I'm Jed's uncle, Scott Sutton from San Francisco." (To Be Continued)

Bills Would Give Way To Close Schools

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Governor of Mississippi would be authorized to close any or all schools and state-supported colleges under number as Melanie sang ballads of the old South and blues songs. Her throaty voice was true and sweet with the haunting quality Nick had marked for greatness.

People were intrigued with the new gimmick—"The Girl from Las Vegas." Not that anyone believed it, but it was caught on. People liked to be amused.

More thrilled than she ever had been in her life Melanie returned to her dressing room to hear the telephone ringing. "Miss Lewis?" This is the desk clerk. There's a man asking for you. A Mr. Sutton. Shall I send him back?"

"Jed! Yes!" Melanie cried.

COMMISSION REPORTS

Weather Hinders Work On Projects

Inclement weather during the past several days has interrupted the construction program of the Monroe Utilities Commission, but yesterday's sunshine gave promise of progress to come.

French L. Smith, Utilities Commission chairman, said several projects throughout the city were stymied by rain. But he said work would be resumed at a rapid pace if the weather remains pretty.

Projects underway include a street lighting program in the southside of town and the construction of a new transmission line from the power plant to Texas Avenue.

However, the Utilities Commission has completed a project in College Town, which was created by the widening of DeSiard Road from the Louisville intersection to Gillett street.

Widening Project

Tom H. Underwood, Utilities Commission manager, explained that poles were moved in order that the street could be widened.

Also in connection with the Louisville intersection, new poles

Whooping Crane Lays Huge Egg

NEW ORLEANS — Josephine, famed whooping crane, early today laid an egg big as an avocodo in her Audubon Park pen. The whooper mother immediately took up her vigil over the egg, which has an incubation period normally of one month. Crip, the father, stood by proudly awaiting his turn on the egg.

Josephine became famous when two of the five eggs she has laid hatched last year and the little whoopers survived, which most others had failed to do in captivity. New Orleans will have five of the six whooping cranes in captivity if the egg hatches. San Antonio, Tex., has one.

Smith said the Utilities Commission would furnish poles for the park, in addition to transformers and copper conductors.

PILOTS VIOLATE ORDERS?

Plane Crash That Killed 18 Probed

BRIDGEPORT, Tex. (UP) — Two giant Air Force planes collided and crashed late Thursday, killing 18 men, while their pilots were trying to get under a 4,000 foot overcast, investigators learned Friday.

The question is whether they broke flying orders when they descended from 7,000 and 8,000 foot assigned altitudes — 1,000 feet apart — to get under the "soup." There were no survivors to question.

Ironically, one of the planes — a C-119 Flying Boxcar from Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth — was commanded by Capt. H. J. Thomas, 36, of Des Moines, Iowa, who, as an assistant base operations officer taught flying regulations to young officers.

Probers Sift Wreckage

The other plane was a C-124 Globemaster from Hill Air Force Base near Salt Lake City, Utah. It carried a crew of 10 and five hitchhiking servicemen. There were three men on the C-119.

A 21-man Air Force board headed by Col. D. L. Beard started an investigation Friday. They sifted through the wreckage of the two planes that crashed with such force they shook this town of 2,000 persons.

Bruce Chambers, CAA public information officer at Fort Worth said "both planes were given their proper assigned altitudes. If they had maintained these altitudes they would have had the normal 1,000-foot separation at their point of intersection."

"Why they were not at these altitudes we don't know. That's under investigation by Carswell," he said.

W. V. Fox, head of the CAA's traffic control center at Fort Worth, said the planes should have been "stacked" up at 1,000 feet apart — the Globemaster at 7,000 feet and the Flying Boxcar at 8,000 feet.

Neither Plane Radioed

Fox said neither plane had radioed the Bridgeport radio navigation station that they were abandoning flight instructions.

Fox would not say flat-out, however, that the planes had not radioed any other station. This could have been possible, he said, if the Bridgeport channel was tuned up with other radio transmissions.

Ted Lange, a U. S. weather bureau meteorologist, said the base of the cloud formation the planes were trying to get under was 3,000 to 4,000 feet high.

The body of the 18th victim was found early Friday.

Long To Host 8 Members Of Parliament

BATON ROUGE (UP) — Gov. Earl Long's office next Wednesday will play host to 12 members of the British Parliament.

The visitors are headed by Sir James Henderson Stewart, joint parliamentary secretary under the secretary of state for Scotland.

All are participants in the foreign exchange program of the International Education Exchange Service, U. S. Department of State.

They are scheduled to arrive in New Orleans Sunday evening, and Monday they will be greeted in the mayor's office by New Orleans councilman Glenn P. Clasen.

At noon Monday they board the yacht Good Neighbor for a tour of the port of New Orleans. Later the visitors will attend a reception at International House.

President Troy H. Middleton of Louisiana State University will greet the British officials during a campus tour here Wednesday, with the visit to the governor's office scheduled at 3 p.m.

After the visit here, the visitors will return to New Orleans, closing their American visit.

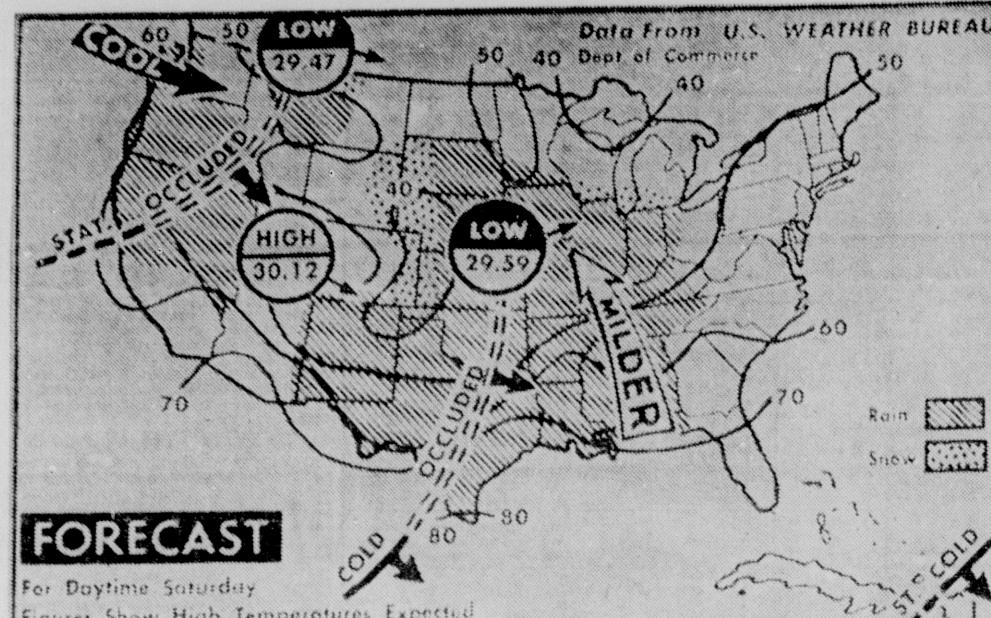

The group includes Lord Rea, Liberal Party leader, and Lord St. Oswald, Conservative Party, from the House of Lords; Charles Doughty, N. Hughes Young, R. Goodman Irvine, Mrs. P. McLaughlin, Miss M. Heribson, Dr. J. Dickson Madon, the Rev. Lewellyn Williams, E. Popplewell, W. A. Wilkins, all from the House of Commons.

Baby Girl Dead Of Drinking Acid

LAFAYETTE, La. (UP) — A 19-month-old girl died in a hospital here Friday after drinking an acid solution she found in her parents' garage.

Dr. Henry Voorhies, parish coroner, said Linda McGinn drank the solution yesterday. He said it caused acid burns from her mouth to her stomach.

The girl's father, F. M. McGuinn of Lafayette, a self-employed oil well servicer, said he kept the solution for use in his work.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Rain or showers are predicted for the central valleys westward to the central plains, Iowa, eastern South Dakota, southern Minnesota, the southern Lakes, the southern Rockies and plains, the central Gulf region, Nevada, northern California and western Oregon and Montana. Snow or rain is due over eastern Oregon and most of Montana. Snow is forecast for eastern Wyoming and Colorado and the western limits of South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

REILY, McDONALD VIEWS

La. Financial Picture Seen Better Than Most

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — State Revenue Collector James Reily and Dr. Stephen L. McDonald, head of the Louisiana State University finance department, differed sharply today in forecasts of potential state income during the next fiscal year.

Both spoke on an afternoon panel at the Public Affairs Research Council's conference on Louisiana government.

Reily and McDonald agreed the fiscal picture in Louisiana is better than in the nation as a whole and that the current business recession is only grazing the state. But there the agreement ended.

Reily predicted an increase in revenue from current sources of only 2½ per cent during the 1958-59 fiscal year.

McDonald foresees a five per cent increase in revenues from existing sources. He said his figures allowed for the "present temporarily adverse conditions in the petroleum industry."

Reily said he is calling for a $3,600,000 saving through "improved administrative efficiency" during the coming fiscal year.

If the administration achieves the results planned, Reily said, "the dollars gained will cover the approximate total cost of operation of the Department of Revenue." But the state, he said, needs to tighten up also on sales tax collections since only about 90 per cent of those obligated to pay are actually paying the taxes.

McDonald gave an encouraging picture of economic conditions, which most fiscal experts paint as bleak.

The state must change its ways, she said, because income is not keeping pace with expenditures. Other panel members with Miss Pliner were former Gov. Sam H. Jones and Frank M. McLaury, Michigan State accounting official.

Miss Pliner called for budgetary improvements. Her suggestions included tighter budgetary controls and review; more information on budgets to show what services the state is getting for its money; auditing to be taken from the division of administration; centralized programming and purchasing; and that idle state money be invested on short term basis.

Jones also called for budgetary controls, pointing out that state spending has jumped from $2 million dollars a year in the early 1940s to $600 million this year. He said some already were being made.

Jones said the state should have:

1. A budgetary system that would make available on a continuing basis detailed operating data to insure compliance with the overall policies of the administration.

2. A continuing, comprehensive study of the economic condition of the state, including analyses of industrial growth, agricultural trends, employment, cost of living, the need for governmental services and the ability of the people to pay.

3. Facilities for long range planning of state government programs as they relate, not only to the functions and services provided by the government, but including also long range policies that would be helpful to the development of a vigorous growing economy for the greater good of the state.

McLaury presented a talk on the technical aspects of good budgeting.

The rebels were caught Thursday on a 70-foot boat with an arsenal which included 600 mm mortars. It was reliably reported that authorities had them under constant surveillance since March 7. A customs agent was heard to say Thursday "those damn fools never had a chance. We had a man with them all the way."

A government agent on a shrimp boat watched them Wednesday night as they ferried the arms and ammunition to the freighter off the Texas coast. A rubber boat took them to the shrimp boat, which in turn took them to their freighter, anchored eight miles out in the Gulf of Mexico.

Lunch Friday was the third meal they had missed. They marched to the dining room chanting a rebel song and back to their cells without touching a morsel.

PILOTS VIOLATE ORDERS?

Plane Crash That Killed 18 Probed

BRIDGEPORT, Tex. (UPI) — A rear meteorologist said the base two giant Air Force planes col. of the cloud formation the planes killed and crashed late Thursday, were trying to get under was killing 18 men, while their pilots 3,000 to 4,000 feet high. were trying to get under a 4,000 foot overcast, investigators learned Friday.

The question was whether they broke flying orders when they descended from 7,000 and 8,000 feet assigned altitudes — 1,000 feet apart — to get under the "soup." There were no survivors to question.

Ironically, one of the planes — a C-119 Flying Boxcar from Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth — was commanded by Capt. H. J. Thomas, 35, of Des Moines, Iowa, who, as an assistant base operations officer taught flying regulations to young officers.

Problems Sift Wreckage

The other plane was a C-124 Globemaster from Hill Air Force Base near Salt Lake City, Utah. It carried a crew of 10 and five hitchhiking servicemen. There were three men on the C-119.

A 21-man Air Force board headed by Col. D. L. Beard started an investigation Friday. They sifted through the wreckage of the two planes that crashed with such force they shook this town of 2,000 persons.

Bruce Chambers, CAA public information officer at Fort Worth, said "both planes were given their proper assigned altitudes. If they had maintained these altitudes they would have had the normal 1,000-foot separation at their point of intersection."

"Why they were not at these altitudes we don't know. That's under investigation by Carswell," he said.

W. V. Fox, head of the CAA's traffic control center at Fort Worth, said the planes should have been "stacked" up at 1,000 feet apart — the Globemaster at 7,000 feet and the Flying Boxcar at 8,000 feet.

Neither Plane Radied

Fox said neither plane had radioed the Bridgeport radio navigation station that they were abandoning flight instructions.

Fox would not say flat-out, however, that the planes had not radioed any other station. This could have been possible, he said, if the Bridgeport channel was tied up with other radio transmissions.

REILY, McDONALD VIEWS

La. Financial Picture Seen Better Than Most

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — State Revenue Collector James Rely said, "The coming fiscal year," he is keeping pace with expenditures. Other panel members with Miss Pliner were former Gov. Sam H. Jones and Frank M. McLaury, Michigan State accounting official.

Rely and McDonald agreed the fiscal picture in Louisiana is better than in the nation as a whole and that the current business recession is only grazing the state. But there the agreement ended.

Rely predicted an increase in revenue from current sources of only 2½ per cent during the 1958 fiscal year. McDonald foresaw a five per cent increase in revenues from existing sources. He said his figures allowed for the "present temporarily adverse conditions in the petroleum industry" and correspondingly reduced severance tax receipts.

Both spoke on an afternoon panel at the Public Affairs Research Council's conference on Louisiana government.

Rely and McDonald agreed the fiscal picture in Louisiana is better than in the nation as a whole and that the current business recession is only grazing the state. But there the agreement ended.

Rely predicted an increase in revenue from current sources of only 2½ per cent during the 1958 fiscal year.

If the administration achieves the results planned, Rely said, "the dollars gained will cover the approximate total cost of operation of the Department of Revenue." But the state, he said, needs to tighten up also on sales tax collections, since only about 90 per cent of those obligated to pay are actually paying the taxes.

McDonald gave an encouraging picture of economic conditions, which most fiscal experts paint as bleak.

Rely said he is calling for a $2,600,000 saving through "improved administrative efficiency" during the coming fiscal year.

Removal Bids In Caddo Received

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — Highway director R. B. Richardson said high bids totaling $12,496 for sale and removal of nine state-acquired buildings in Caddo Parish were received Friday.

All bids were taken under advisement.

The structures are located within right of way limits planned for improvements along the Summer Grove-Shreveport highway, U. S. 171.

CHAFEL HILL, N. C. (UPI) — The Rev. Alfred Stratton Lawrence, 76, who served as rector and rector emeritus of the Episcopal Church of the Cross here for 37 years, died Friday.

A government agent on a shrimp boat watched them Wednesday night as they ferried the arms and ammunition to the freighter off the Texas coast. A rubber boat took them to the shrimp boat, which in turn took them to their freighter, anchored eight miles out in the Gulf of Mexico.

The rebels were caught Thursday on a 70-foot boat with an arsenal which included 600 mm mortars. It was reliably reported that authorities had them under constant surveillance since March 7. A customs agent was heard to say Thursday "those damn fools never had a chance. We had a man with them all the way."

Indonesian Rebels Hit Medan Area Counterattack By Rebs; Plan Another Front

SINGAPORE (UP)—Reinforced Indonesian rebel forces have launched a counterattack against government—held Medan in northern Sumatra, a revolutionary spokesman at Bukittinggi said Saturday night.

The spokesman, rebel Foreign Minister Col. Maludin Simbolon, also asserted anti-government forces in the northern Celebes planned to open a new front shortly to "relieve the pressure" on the Sumatran rebel forces.

The colonel called on the free nations of the world to grant de facto recognition to the revolutionary regime, "something we really need now."

Look To West

He told newsmen: "We look to the free world to sympathize with our struggle and give us moral support because we are fighting for the same principles and same aims."

Simbolon told United Press correspondent Wendell S. Merick in the rebel capital—stronghold of Bukittinggi that Col. Veneto Sumal had "definite plans to open a new front" in the Celebes. Sumal supports the Sumatra rebels who broke with the central Jakarta government in protest against President Sukarno's "guided democracy," which included the Communists in the government.

Pin Down Troops

Observers here said such a rebel counterattack would be designed to pin down government troops who otherwise could be shifted to the offensive against the rebel capitals of Padang and Bukittinggi in Central Sumatra.

The rebels claimed that specially-trained commando troops had joined insurgent guerrilla bands in harassing the central government troops attempting to drive on the rebel capitals from Pakanbaru and Taluk.

Rebel Interior Minister Col. Dahlan Djambak said government forces had pulled back beyond Taluk, a key road junction in Central Sumatra, to regroup their forces. He said the central government troops which pushed off from the oil center city of Pakanbaru had covered only about 50 miles toward Bangkinang.

Latest government reports placed the spearheads of the Jakarta forces within 60 miles of Padang and about the same distance from the main highway which links the rebel city with Palembang in still-neutral southern Sumatra.

Mrs. Ratliff was a past president of the Womans Society of Christian Service of the North Mississippi Methodist Conference and had served as president of the sea hesterian jurisdiction.

U.S. To Go Ahead With Bomb Tests Despite Soviet Objections Of 'Arbitrary Act'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States said Saturday it will go ahead with nuclear tests in the Pacific this spring despite Russia's objections.

The Soviet government filed a protest Friday against what it termed the "arbitrary action" of the United States in blocking off the high seas using American administered U.N. trust territory for the explosions.

The protest was announced Saturday in Moscow. An hour later the State Department replied publicly.

Statement Given

In a written statement the department said the issue of nuclear testing in the trust territory had been thoroughly discussed in the United Nations and its trusteeship council several times.

A spokesman said the statement meant that the United States intended to go ahead with the tests.

President Eisenhower announced Wednesday that foreign observers, probably including Russians, would be invited to witness "a large nuclear explosion" in which radioactive fallout "will be drastically reduced."

Atomic scientists said this means the United States plans to explode nearly "clean" H-bombs

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UP)—Four Stanford Students, three suffering from exhaustion and one from pneumonia, were marooned at the 11,000-foot level in the Sierra Saturday night with heavy snow predicted.

Two of the hikers are women. An Air National Guard helicopter could not reach them because of bad weather.

A rescue mission from Hamilton Air Force Base was set to drop two paragliders but was canceled for the same reason.

Drive

The Easter Seal Drive is again underway and its outcome is vitally essential to the Louisiana Chapter of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. The work is being carried on through the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center.

The chief source of funds for the important work is derived through the Easter Seal campaign. Of funds raised, 65 per cent remains in the contributing parish and 24.7 per cent supports the state-wide program, including services in parishes where there is no local affiliate. Of the total, 10.3 per cent is allocated to the national society.

Since organization in 1951, the chapter has grown rapidly. There is now being expended in Louisiana through the Easter Seal program a total of more than $500,000.

Help to carry on this great work by sending in your money for the seals. You will never lose by helping a great cause.

Editorial Comment

In the first editorial comment on Khrushchev replacing Nikolai Bulganin as premier, Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, said the change "expressed the will of the Soviet people."

Citing President Klement Voroshilov's laudatory speech which nominated Khrushchev, Pravda went on to say that the Supreme Soviet approved the choice with "exceptional unanimity."

The editorial said the Supreme Soviet resolution requesting Khrushchev to form a new government "met with the unanimous approval of the entire Soviet people and also our friends from abroad."

The newspaper Soviet Russia described the new premier in glowing terms.

It said his appointment "evoked in the heart of each Soviet citizen,

Plane Crashes On Residence; Pilot, 24, Dies

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UP)—A jet trainer circling in fog for an emergency landing crashed with a thunderous roar into a residence Saturday and sent nine occupants fleeing in panic from the flaming house.

The pilot, whose mother and sister were waiting for him to land at the nearby municipal airport, died in the flames. But the nine members of the two families in the house, dressed in night clothes and stopping only to grab up sleeping children, escaped unharmed.

Only the family dog died in the house.

The residents probably owed their lives to Mrs. Velma White, 50. She was awake, exercising a cramped leg, when the plane struck at 4:35 a.m. Thinking lightning had hit the house, she screamed an alarm. The last member of the two families reached safety just before the roof caved in.

The pilot was 1st Lt. Wendell Riche Miller, 24, Salisbury, N.C. He was on a cross country flight from Vance Air Force Base, Enid, Okla., where his wife was given the news of his death. She is expecting their first child in June.

Col. William J. Payne, commander of the North Carolina Air National Guard, said Miller had flown to Palm Beach, Fla., and then started for Charlotte. He said Miller ran into "sour weather" and reached a fog-shrouded Charlotte Municipal Airport with only 10 minutes of fuel left.

Payne said visibility was only 1/16 of a mile when Miller radioed the tower he would have to try an emergency landing. He said Miller made an approach and missed the runway. He circled low in the fog, unable to see the ground, and clipped a group of trees and a high tension

A rash of spring storms whipped through parts of the Rockies and the central and southern Plains early Saturday, breeding hail, rain, snow and tornadoes.

The bad weather was blamed for several plane crashes which killed at least six servicemen.

Two were killed when a jet trainer crashed and burned while flying through heavy snow clouds near Lowry Field, Colo., and three airmen died in the crash of a B-52 bomber during a rain storm near Oklahoma City.

At Charlotte, N.C., an Air Force pilot died when his T-33 jet trainer hit a high tension wire and crashed into a house in an emergency landing during heavy fog.

The nine occupants of the house, which burned down, escaped with their lives.

Aged Negro Is Aided

A case of more than ordinary human interest was that in which William Prophit, 86-year-old Negro, was removed from a tumble-down, dilapidated shack to a suitable home for aged Negroes.

In this case there was a strange difference of opinion in what should have been done. Privately a large majority of the people believe that the Monroe police department took the right action. Yet there are a good many others who believe the old Negro should have been left undisturbed, since he evidently was not bothering anybody and any action that there may have been in his mode of living was a danger only to himself.

By modern standards, Prophit is far better off than he was before. He is a warm house in which to live, his meals are prepared for him and he does not lack for any of the necessities of life. Plans are being made to see if any medical treatment can relieve him of blindness. All of the action taken by police was along humanitarian lines.

It is unlikely, however, that anyone else will be quite happy or safer by the change in the aged Negro's situation, as he was far enough removed from other people and other houses not to constitute any particular fire or health threat.

Since Prophit was living in an apparently legal manner and there had been no objection to his living in that way by the owner of the property, the main question will seem to be whether he would be happier in the old situation or in the new one and that was a question which only he could decide.

Against Monopoly

The differential subsidies which the government gives to the American merchant marine differ from other aid programs in a number of extremely important ways.

To begin with, these subsidies are a matter of sheer necessity. It costs a great deal less to build, maintain and operate ships in the other major maritime powers than in this country, because due to the great differences in wages and in living and working conditions, without government assistance, U.S. built and operated merchant ships would be a rarity on the high seas.

Secondly, the subsidies are granted under very strict terms. The ships involved must be built in American yards and manned with American crews. They must sail on regular schedules and on trade routes which the government deems to be essential. Then, if their operations are profitable, a portion of the profits must be turned to the government to help offset the subsidy payments.

Foreign trade—the vast proportion of which depends on ocean shipping—is of increasing importance to us all. It accounts for something like seven per cent of all of our employment and nine per cent of our production of moveable goods. In dollar volume, it has been running in excess of $30 billion a year. Government support of the U.S.-flag merchant marine has been accurately defined as an "insurance premium against foreign monopoly." In today's world, we simply can't afford to depend on the ships of other nations doing the job for us. Through no fault of their own or ours, we could lose their services overnight.

The taxpayers' investment in our merchant marine returns great dividends both in material benefits, and in national power and security.

Committee Ends Hearings On Reciprocal Trade Act

The House Ways and Means Committee hearings on the pro-Southern government, manufacturing the Ways and Means Committee proposal for a five years extension this country into cloth and shipping has been that we are the only nation in the world that does not have an agreement that trade would be good. This week, there followed the bill.

The argument that trade had to be limited by tariffs, quotas, importers of the reciprocal trade program on Thursday, with such no longer reciprocal was expounded of their money in terms of speakers as President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon. ## HIS FOREIGN AID

West Monroe, La.
Editor, Morning World.

On March 23, when Mr. Dulles testified before the foreign relations committee, he said the money we let foreign nations have come back through the U. S. and gave jobs to thousands and helped our economy and that had the committee only questioned him mildly they might have asked him about his offer to help Nasser the Aswan Dam and when he found out that Nasser was trying to get help from Russia he advised his offer and in doing so set off a chain of events that

Nasser, with disregard for Egypt's treaty with Britain and France, seized the Suez Canal and said he would build the dam with revenues from the canal. This Britain and France would not stand for. Then Nasser made a deal with the Communists to trade cotton for arms. I ask if we helped to produce this cotton and whose economy did this help, and after Britain, France and Egypt sank ships in the canal how much money did we give them to get the canal cleared out and at the same time make a hero of Nasser in the Arab world and he helped Nasser on his way to becoming another dictator.

We would like to know who let

Japan have money to build textile mills, who helped Japan equip their fishing fleet with modern refrigeration and if we are not subsidiary oil equipment in foreign countries. All this while these same industries in this country are at a standstill with thousands of Americans out of work on account of these same people shipping cheap products into this country. These same concerns have been asking the president to cut their quotas which he has the power to do. He has only asked them to cut their imports.

Yet he asked the senate and congress for five more years of the trade agreements. I fail to see why he wants five more years when it looks as if he will have us finished off in one more year.

The president said in a speech when he came to foreign aid like an ostrich. I think he is all wrong,

I can not remember a year since

World War II they did not get aid. They tell us they must have four more billion dollars to keep

Communists out of other countries.

What are they doing about getting them out of this country when the supreme court turns

Reuther Lashes Out At Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Union leader Walter Reuther Saturday accused some Senate Republicans of taking part in a design to destroy him and the United Auto Workers.

Record Is Set By Sub

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—The atomic submarine Skate docked Saturday with a new record on her string — from England to America, 2,975 miles, in seven days, all under water.

"We just did what came naturally," said her proud skipper Cmdr. James F. Calvert of Cleve-land, Ohio.

But it was a distinguished trip for the 265-foot Skate — her second big accomplishment since she joined the Nautilus and Seawolf in the Navy's nuclear submarine fleet only last December.

She went under water at Lizard Head, the entrance to the English Channel, and didn't surface until 173 hours later when she came up near Block Island Saturday morning. During that period she took time out to participate in routine exercises. And she was traveling against the Gulf Stream, a slowing factor. She left Rotterdam March 21.

The aim of the trip was to see how the ship would perform at high sustained speeds.

The answer? "The performance of the ship was perfect," said Calvert, who added that the rate of speed was classified.

Last month the Skate crossed the Atlantic from near Nantucket to Portland, England, in nine days, another record. From England she went to France and the Netherlands.

Woman, Half-Brother France Rides Meet For First Time Boom As U.S.

Slump Drags

A Monroe woman and her half-brother met recently for the first time despite the fact that one is 60 and the other 74 years old, and they lived only about 100 miles apart.

The woman is Mrs. Florence Newton Netherland of Monroe, and her half-brother is Bane Newton of Shreveport who came together through a mere coincidence through the interest of the wife of one of Mrs. Netherland's grandsons.

The younger relative was visiting with friends and a stranger was present. She asked his name, and he replied that it was Newton. Mrs. Netherland remarked that her husband's grandmother's name was Newton before she married, and the man asked if it was Florence, he feather which she still owns.

Arrangements Made

Newton said he had a half sister named Florence Newton somewhere, and the arrangements for a meeting were started on the off-chance that the man and the woman were half brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Netherland made a trip to Shreveport to see Newton and it was soon established that they had had the same father who was William Henry Newton, a "steamboat man" who operated a boat on the Ouachita river through Monroe.

It was on one of his stops here that Newton met and married Bane Newton's mother who was owner of a millinery shop on Trinity Street in Monroe. They then moved to Catahoula Lake and there was a separation, with Bane moving to Pineview where he operated a ferry boat across Red River.

The father died in 1900 at Harmer's Mill, and at his death, gave Mrs. Netherland a feather bed which she still owns.

New Versions

On Bell Earnings

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Arnold Hirsch, Washington, D.C., utility expert, came up with three new versions of Southern Bell earnings Saturday, including one that called for a $337,000 rate cut.

A Southern Bell attorney labeled the rate consultant's then "super highway to telephone bankruptcy."

The exchange came as Hirsch concluded his testimony and the Louisiana Public Service Commission recessed the rate hearings until April 21.

Raburn Monroe, telephone company attorney, also tangled again with Chairman Nat B. Knight.

Telecommunications have been frequent in the three-day hearing.

Southern Bell's request for an immediate seven million dollar rate hike plus a study leading to a total increase of 13 million.

Hirsch testified yesterday, based on the six month test period in the first half of 1957 that $1,790,000 was the maximum rate the telephone company could expect.

The testimony was based on an assumed 45 per cent debt ratio.

Hirsch today presented testimony based on a 50 per cent debt ratio that trimmed the required increase to $1,029,000.

Then he set up Southern Bell operations on a par with the average of the nation's electrical utilities, adding in 12 per cent preferred stock, and said that means Southern Bell was earning $557,000 surplus above a return required to pay seven per cent dividends.

"I am merely inviting the commission's attention to this other study because I think it is pertinent," Hirsch said. "It would be most appropriate if we are going to place the phone company on a par with the electrical utilities with regard to earnings."

Finally, he computed Southern Bell's earnings for the entire year of 1957 based on a 45 per cent debt ratio, instead of the prevailing 24.7 per cent and said this would entitle them to a $1,955,000 rate hike.

They plan to arrive at the U.N.

School Is Rocked By Explosion

IDAHOT FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — An explosion rocked North Madison Junior High School at Rexburg, 42 miles north of here Friday night. Investigators were attempting to link it with the series of mysterious dynamiteings in Idaho Falls.

The Rexburg blast occurred on the basement floor of the junior high school, demolishing six double-lockers, shattering windows and knocking plaster off ceilings. The damage was discovered Saturday morning when Doyle Andersen, an instructor, entered the school.

A Lowell Crainer, chief of detectives for Idaho Falls, said that a member of the SINA Army Ordnance Disposal Team from Camp Hanford, Wash., was sent to Rexburg to assist in the investigation there. The disposal team arrived here to assist local authorities in their probe of the bombings which have kept this eastern Idaho community in a grip of terror since Wednesday night.

Weary Civil Defense volunteers reported to report for duty again Saturday night after an all-night vigil which may have discouraged another blasting spree by Idaho Falls' dynamiter. Police believe the person responsible is demoted.

The willow branch bomber, who of Tomorrow contest held at the Venetian Building in West Monroe on Wednesday and Thursday night, took Friday night off. Idaho Falls as a volunteer force of 300 civilians went on the night-long patrol.

Car With Man's Body Pulled Out Of Miss. Bayou

Car With Man's Body Pulled Out Of Miss. Bayou

MARSH, Miss. (UPI) — An auto holding the body of a man missing two days was pulled out of 15 feet of water in Bayou Bayou, 10 miles north of here Saturday. The man was identified as James Martin, 40-year-old Negro from Sledge, missing since Thursday.

Sheriff L. V. Harrison of Quitman County said the car was discovered when officers investigated a broken bridge railing over the bayou. Harrison said Martin apparently skidded off the bridge late Thursday or early Friday.

YALE DEAN CALLS FOR TOUGH EXAMS TO GET ADMITTED

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 29 (UPI) — A Yale university dean says that only select students, those who pass the most rigorous entrance examinations, should be admitted to college.

Dr. William Clyde DeVane, a professor of English, told the Southern Humanities Conference that "in our Democratic idealism, we assume that all our youth should be educated through high school and are now very close to extending that assumption to college."

DeVane conceded that a "rigorous" system of choosing only students of exceptional ability for college would "encounter much opposition in America."

Says Plane Pilot Was Experienced

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — National Airlines said Saturday the co-pilot of a plane which crashed five years ago killing 40 persons was qualified and experienced.

L. W. Dymond, NAL vice president for operations, maintenance and engineering, added in a statement the Gulf of Mexico storm in which the plane went down Feb. 14, 1953, "was not adequately covered by the current forecast at that time."

U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert Christenberry ruled in New Orleans Friday National was negligent about safety precautions and assigned an incompetent co-pilot to the ill-fated Tampa-New Orleans flight.

"We have not had an opportunity to examine the court's decision," Dymond said. "However, the findings as reported by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) are contrary to those of the CAB," the federal agency charged with the responsibility for the investigation of airline accidents.

Dymond reported the CAB found the co-pilot qualified said the storm movement was not adequately covered by a U.S. Weather Bureau forecast, that National disclaimers were properly certified and that the flight had been supplied with weather information by a preceding flight.

To Judge Christenberry's comment that National did not maintain its own meteorological department, Dymond replied the CAB "said a separate meteorological department is not required."

"National Airlines, like the majority of domestic air carriers, definitely held a captain's pilot

Negro Man Face Life In Prison

MAGNOLIA, Miss. (UPI) — UP-A 19-year-old Negro, to be the judge "the mark of Cain is on your forehead," today faces a life penitentiary sentence for killing a white man.

Charles Ellzey pleaded guilty and was sentenced to Judge Tom Brady for the shooting death of Howard Hawkins, 42. Officers said Ellzey and a young brother were hunting rabbits in Hawkins' land last Jan. 13. Hawkins, they said, ordered them to leave and fired a pistol "to scare them." Ellzey then shot Hawkins.

In passing sentence Brady to Ellzey: "The blood of the man you killed is on your hands as the mark of Cain is on your forehead."

of the United States Weather Bureau."

The judge quoted progress reports as describing the co-pilot as "completely incompetent" as "idle and lax in radio technique and knowledge of operating procedures."

The plane's casualty list identified the co-pilot as C. T. Stettner, 32, of Miami.

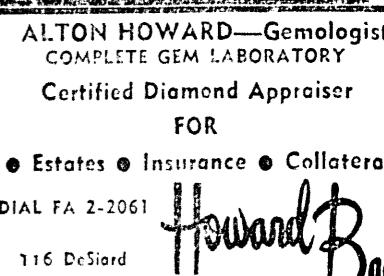

National said reports quoted the judge "were those made by union pilots who flew with Stettner shortly after their return from a lengthy strike in 1948."

Stettner, although a member of the union, did not strike but continued to work. A complete check and check of Stettner's qualifications and he was found to be completely qualified and competent.

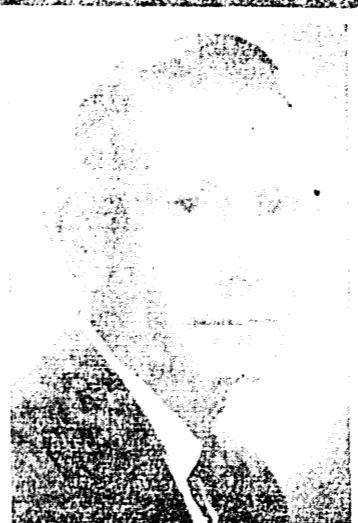

The CAB, in its report, also found him to be completely qualified, dis-counting the union-pilot reports which had been filed yesterday.

"National Airlines, like the majority of domestic air carriers, definitely held a captain's pilot uses the more extensive facilities certificate."

To The People of West Monroe

It has long been customary in American political campaigns for candidates to announce publicly what they expect to accomplish if elected.

In a nutshell, my platform will be devoted to a conservative, sound administration of our city's business in a manner which will get the most for the public dollar.

As your mayor I would remain constantly on the job where I would be readily accessible to all citizens. I would retain the humility which I am proud to say has characterized my conduct all my life. I would always remember that every citizen, rich or poor, should be given an equal opportunity to make his voice heard at the city hall, and I would retain "Marlin" as you know me now.

I believe that every city employee should be given a living wage, but I also believe he should give value received. I also believe that every tax dollar should be spent in West Monroe whenever at all possible and practical.

There are several things which I believe West Monroe needs and which I would work hard to accomplish. Foremost among them are better streets, (particularly, restoring those streets throughout the suburban areas which have been damaged by the sewer installation work now underway), a hospital or medical center, better recreation facilities for our children, and improved drainage.

As a city grows, its problems grow in proportion, and they must be met forcibly and with decision. One such problem is the lack of warning signals at street crossings over the Illinois Central Railroad. I would immediately launch an effort to have the needed signals installed.

West Monroe is potentially one of the most beautiful cities in Louisiana! I believe we should create a City Beautification Board, manned by the fine women of our Community, with authority to proceed to beautify our City, and take advantage of the many natural elements of beauty which abound in West Monroe!

Having served as a member of the Board of Aldermen for the 12 years prior to 1950, I am familiar with the administrative problems of our city and consequently would not take up my duties as mayor as a "green hand."

During the past few weeks I have personally called on virtually every home in the city. Some of you were away at the time, and I'm sorry I missed you, because I wanted to talk with you face to face.

The election is only a little more than a week away. I hope you will all give deep consideration to my candidacy and vote for me on April 8. I will be sincerely grateful.

Farm Policies May Be Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration's farm policies may be put to a critical test at the nation's dairy counters during the next week or 10 days.

Acting under those policies, Secretary of Agriculture Benson has ordered lower dairy price supports effective April 1.

Benson has said the lower supports should lead to declines of about 3 cents a pound for butter, about 2½ cents a pound for cheese, and from ½ to 1 cent a quart in retail prices of fluid milk.

Some leading food chains in the East and Midwest already have cut the price of butter, but many farm and dairy industry leaders have expressed doubt that there will be any general action of that kind. They predict that the reductions in prices paid to milk producers, instead of being passed along to consumers, will be taken by processors and distributors to cover what the latter contend have been rising costs.

The reduction in the dairy supports was ordered in line with the administration's contention that the only sound way of helping agriculture is to broaden markets for farm products. Broadening of markets can be accomplished by reducing farm prices to make them more competitive, the administration says.

So unless there is a widespread reflection in retail dairy markets of the price support reductions ordered by Benson, the administration might well find its policies on said.

Picasso experts figure that on a square footage basis a Picasso this size could bring about 10 million dollars.

What To Watch As Key To U. S. Economic Recovery

By WILLIAM FERRIS

NEW YORK (AP) — What should we watch to see if the country is recovering from the recession? When are we likely to emerge from over-all business turned up?

Dr. Geoffrey Moore, associate director of research at the National Bureau of Economic Research, listed several items which he and should be watched closely. They included:

1. An increase in the average work week. This has occurred prior to an expansion in employment.

2. An increase in new orders and in contracts for future construction. These ordinarily pick up from four to six months before an upturn in industrial output or employment.

3. The latest figures on new orders for all types of durable goods for January. They have declined for 12 straight months. Residential contracts have declined for five months and commercial contracts for nine months.

4. A contraction in the scope of the recession — that is, in the number of business indices affected by it. This has happened first in all 4 recessions and depressions the bureau has studied. It occurs usually 6 to 12 months before an upturn in aggregate business activity.

5. There is a hint now that the scope has narrowed," Moore said, "but that is a very tentative observation. The apparent trend toward narrowing the scope could be quickly reversed."

4. A variety of evidence is necessary before the recession can be said to be over — not just figures on an employment, retail sales or other individual economic barometers.

In this connection Moore noted government figures on employment are based on a sample, which varies monthly. Therefore, a one-month decline or upturn in employment doesn't necessarily indicate a sustained trend.

5. It is important to adjust the statistics to seasonal variations. Monthly comparisons alone, without adjustment, don't mean much.

Unemployment normally declines 14 per cent from January to May, increases 18 per cent from May to June, declines 22 per cent from June to October and increases 31 per cent from October to January.

Thus, a decline of 10 per cent in the number of people out of employment between January and May in both the 1953-54 and 1948-49 this year would be less than seasonal, the average work week is still, and no cause for belief the recession was over.

How does this recession compare with those of the past?

"The current decline about equals, and possibly exceeds, the two previous post-World War II recessions," Moore said. He noted that the "leading series" — that is, indices which tend to lead aggregate business moves — are down more than in the last two recessions.

The 1953-54 recession ran from a peak in July 1953 to a trough in August 1954. That was 13 months going down. The 1948-49 recession ran from a November 1948 peak to a bottom in October 1949. That was 11 months going down. The present recession started from a peak in July 1957 — eight months ago.

The current recession does not compare in severity at this point with that of 1936-37 or the great depression of the early 1930s.

If the historical precedent of the 1953-54 recession holds true, of course, it might note, Moore said it seems unlikely a general, sustained, cyclical business upturn will get under way this spring.

Movie Goers Getting Look At Young Star

N.Y. (UPI) — Romi Schneider has just taken a quick look at the United States, and now the country's movie-goers at last have a chance to take a more leisurely look at this 18-year-old star of German films who is a box office champion in Europe.

Miss Schneider liked what she saw, and the American can't help liking her. She's both easy on the eyes and quite an actress, as her first film to be released here, "The Story of Vickie," has demonstrated.

The daughter of the noted German actress, Magda Schneider, has been a star in Europe since 1953, and her popularity has grown with every one of the dozen pictures she has made in four years. Finally the Buena Vista arm of Walt Disney's widespread enterprises broke the ice by introducing her in the third film she made.

The star has brown hair and eyes, an oval face with high cheek bones and a personality that is a strange mixture of calm and vivacity.

She was especially interested while here in the food in the better restaurants. She likes to eat especially shrimp cocktails and ice cream. Fortunately, she has no weight problem.

The star speaks English well but enough to get by conversationally but not professionally, so the dialogue in "The Story of Vickie" has been dubbed. She plays the young Queen Victoria of Prussia, and the story is of her romance with Albert.

Argument Flares Between Parties

The administration and Congress have launched an anti-recession program, they said, and the administration is ready to take more steps to stimulate the economy if the circumstances required further action.

The Democratic Digest said that Senate Republican Leader W. E. Knowles and House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., issued a joint statement that the recession is "a fact" and that the administration's anti-recession program "has not been fully tested." The Digest said that the economy "is described as well-planned and well-managed." It also said that the congressional leaders and Republicans "are along the lines of the administration in its program."

List 31 Moves

The Digest said that the administration does not believe in "over-reacting" to the economy.

These points and others were also repeated yesterday by the Digest, the administration's official publication.

Spring Storms Cause Several Plane Crashes

A heavy rain and high winds forced many flights from Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., yesterday afternoon. Winds of 60 miles per hour moved the planes.

High winds also hampered operations at airports and damaged 37 aircraft, and industries and docks were closed, and several flights were canceled.

Police Capt. Henry Averitt, commanding officer of an express company, Houston, Tex., said that three planes had crashed in a thunderstorm near New Braunfels, Tex., and an engine failure was reported above Lone.

House Trailers Overturned. At New Haven, Tex., the house trailers were overturned by high winds.

In the second flight, state federal officials warned airline to proceed slowly for safety, and passengers were advised to dress warmly.

Most of the passengers and weather experts believe that the high rain and high winds caused a car to roll from West Virginia into North Carolina.

A disturbance on the west coast spread rain over the Oregon-California border, and a small sign on the island was blown to the mountains.

Expect Announcement

The Soviet protest was viewed in official quarters here as a prelude to an announcement early next week that the Soviet Union was halting tests, unilaterally.

Some sources here believed Moscow also would announce it was stopping the use of fissionable materials for nuclear weapons.

Moscow's protest also came just after the Russians had hurriedly started a series of tests in Siberia.

The United States and Japan have protested to Moscow's closing of a vast area of the high seas off the Siberian port, Vladivostok, beginning last year. There has been speculation that this area also was being used for weapons tests or war games.

Some officials believe Russia's protest is to try for a worldwide pre-arranged victory next week by stops to weapons development.

To counter this move, the U.S. government is drafting a warning against what it regards as booby traps in the Soviet scheme.

The U.S. official view is that "we can argue our differences without name-calling."

He apologized to Munk for some of his remarks, but did not include Goldwater or Sen. Curtis in his regrets.

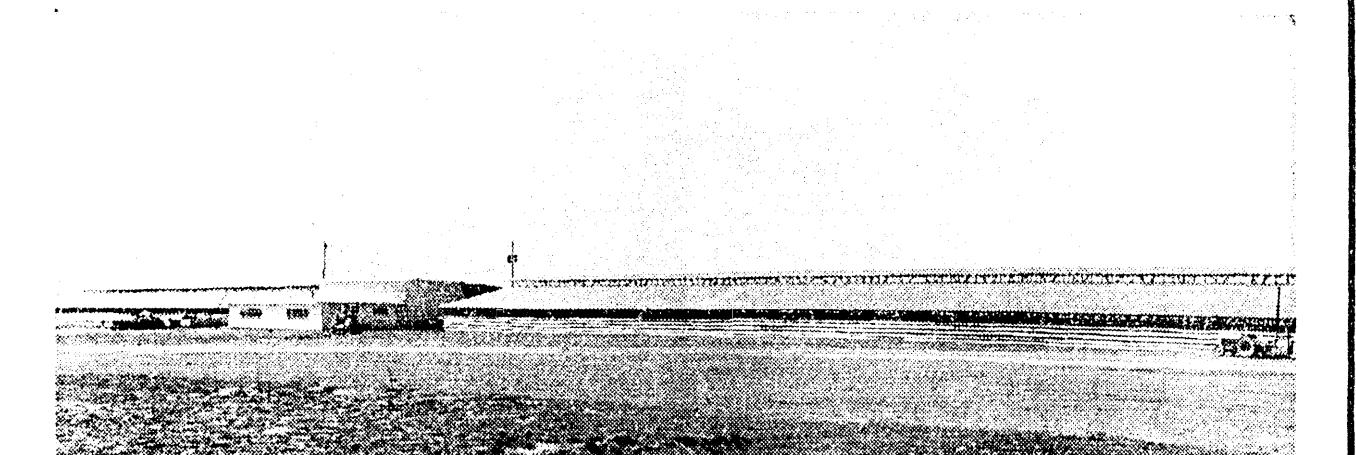

The union leader earlier had smiled broadly as the committee's top account investigator, Carmine Bellino, testified that he had examined the UAW's books closely and had found them in "excellent" shape—for different, he said, from the shoddy and false entries he has uncovered in some war games.

This was toward the end of the bitter day, in which Reuther said France, Italy, West Germany, Holland, Belgium, Norway and Sweden were represented at the meeting.

The congress, convened by the Swiss Academy of Medical Sciences, found that radiation from nuclear weapons testing without further inspection system demanded by Reuther here to show up him said Russian scientists did not accept an invitation.

Stock-Taking Due Between U.S., Latins

WASHINGTON, D. C. A top-level stock-taking of the state of U.S. relations with Latin America apparently is in the making.

The review, to be carried out over the next few months, could lead to a reassessment of U.S. economic and political policies toward the 20 nations to the south.

It apparently is President Eisenhower's answer both to new Russian threats of economic — and political — penetration in Latin America and to congressional critics that not enough attention is paid to that vital area.

The stock-taking will be done by:

1. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who last week announced that at the President's request, he would make an "advisory swing" through eight U.S. American nations, beginning April 26. The countries to be visited are Uruguay, Argentina, Paraguay, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia and Venezuela.

2. Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of the President, who, as the President's personal representative, will make a good-will tour of six Central American nations in April, according to Mrs. Clegg.

3. Secretary of State Dulles, who is reported to be considering other relatives and friends maintain personal visits to individual countries.

Looks 'Em Over

Warm spring weather has that infectious racing bug biting again. Hardly any one is immune. Automobile drivers and mechanics are suffering attacks the worst. Not so sorely smitten are the folks who will make up the crowds that will turn out to see stock car daredevils risk their necks at the speedway.

The Twin City Speedway of West Monroe will be starting its second annual series of shows soon. A week of good weather might even have the helmeted racers calling for a grind next Sunday afternoon.

Regardless of when the season's stock car program begins for the twin cities, Oliver Cloyd, owner of the 20-acre tract on which the half mile track, grandstand, and parking area is located, is continuing to improve the plant.

A course of clay has already been packed over the old track. Clay is supposed to reduce the dust that plagued the events on extremely hot, dry days last year. The fence at the southern end of the oval has been removed and the end areas are being fenced off to keep customers from crowding the rails at those particularly dangerous crash points. Another fence is to be erected around the grandstand to keep customers from wandering into danger zones.

Drivers and mechanics have been using their spare time the past winter rebuilding their cars to get ready for a bigger season. The modified cars are ready to dominate the racing cards. These are the hepped up machines on which owners may spend as much as $2,000 to build them up. The jalopy stock cars also will be run as they were last summer. The jalopies are machines on which owners must spend no more than $150 to get into running order.

Stock car racing is becoming one of the nation's leading spectator sports and rated third as an attraction last year.

Cloyd also plans to introduce night racing before this season is out. Light poles are already on the speedway property ready for erection. Fixtures will follow. Speedway operators feel night events will be more attractive to the fans, particularly during the heat of summer.

So, we're getting ready. They'll give that speedway a call soon.

The Monroe Recreation department's ever expanding participation sports programs had 618 games played by 83 teams in 12 leagues during the winter basketball program recently closed. There were 906 boys and girls from nine years old to unlimited appearing in the games during 48 nights of action in five gymnasiums.

"Without the cooperation of Northeast State, Onacita Parish High, Louisiana Training Institute, South Monroe Junior High, and North Monroe Junior High, all of which permitted use of their gymnasiums, this program would not have been possible," declared Director Jack Hesketh of the recreation department, Hesketh recalled his first winter in the recreation department in 1946 showed ten teams in two leagues—four teams in a Midget League, and six in a Junior League. His first league here, in 1943, was the Red Shield League, a six-team outfit for high school boys.

"Pinkey" Butler and the late Alvin Fleming refereed all of Hesketh's games for free the first three years, and one of Hesketh's favorite stories is how he promised he would buy them "chicken dinners" for their gratis work. Shortly after he purchased both of them three of those nickel candy bars of that name. Later, when the recreation department began paying for its officials, both Butler and Fleming quit officiating. They never accepted a dime for all their work with the kids in those early years.

Every once in a while George Copeland (he was the neighborhood kid who owned all the bats, balls, and gloves when we first got acquainted here in 1923), who prepares football novelties, feeds us a schedule ahead of the regular sources. He obliged with two within the week—Ferriday and Columbia.

Ferriday, under new coach Doug Watkins this season, has home games with Leesville, Sept. 13; Pineville, Oct. 2; Lake Providence, Oct. 24; Rayville, Oct. 31; Winnboro, Oct. 14; and Tallulah, Oct. 21. The Bulldogs travel to Block of Jonesville, Sept. 5 (season opener); Jena, Sept. 19; Delhi, Sept. 26; Cathedral of Natchez, Oct. 9; and Oak Grove, Oct. 12; Nov. 7 is open.

Columbia is at home to LaSalle Sept. 5 (season opener), West Monroe "B" Sept. 18; Block, Oct. 17; and Southside of Monroe, Oct. 30. The Tide is on the road at Winnboro, Sept. 12; Oak Grove, Sept. 26; Mangham, Oct. 3; Start, Oct. 9; and Holly Ridge, Oct. 23. No November games on the slate.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

Veteran bowlers around the Twin Cities area all agree that first year man Ernest Carter is a real Comer. Already Ernie is threatening high average honors with his topflight bowling. Keglering in three leagues this year he has compiled a 177 in the Pioneer, 176 average in the Majors and a fat 180 in the Kegler League.

Action on the home field will include games with McNeese, Arkansas A. and M., Southeastern Louisiana College in the annual homecoming contest on the afternoon of Nov. 8, and McMurry College. Tech met the McMurry Indians last year for the first time.

Games away from home are Mississippi Southern at Hattiesburg, Arkansas State at Jonesboro, Ark., Southwestern Louisiana at Lafayette, Northwestern Louisiana in the annual State Fair tussle at Shreveport, Memphis State at Memphis, Tenn., and Northeast Louisiana at Monroe.

Last fall the Tech team tied for the Gulf States Conference grid crown when the Canines won four and dropped only one GSC game. Tech's season record in 1957 was 6-4.

The schedule:

Sept. 20 — Mississippi Southern at Hattiesburg, Miss.

Sept. 27 — Arkansas State at Jonesboro, Ark.

Oct. 4 — McNeese State at Ruston.

Oct. 11 — S.L.U. at Lafayette.

Oct. 18 — Northwestern Louisiana at Shreveport.

Oct. 25 — Arkansas A. and M. at Ruston.

Nov. 1 — Memphis State at Memphis, Tenn.

Nov. 8 — Southeastern Louisiana at Ruston.

Nov. 15 — McMurry College at Ruston.

Nov. 22 — Northeast Louisiana at Monroe.

ERNEST CARTER

Ernie has popped eight 600's this year—his highest a mighty 641 to go along with a whooping 268 game registered in the Pioneer. The 268 game is the highest bowled at the Bowler Center this year in League play. Second highest is 267 bowled by—you guessed it—Ernest Carter.

A righthander with a three step approach, Ernie relies on his ability to keep the ball tight in the pocket for his pin action.

With the Men's Annual Match Game Championships coming up in April Ernie is a good bet to make the finals. Congratulations to Ernest Carter—Monroe's Rookie bowler of the year.

The ABC Hall of Fame gained its 18th member on March 9 when it was announced that Frank Benkovic of Milwaukee had been voted that honor in the annual election.

He received 51 of 68 votes cast by veteran bowling writers, Hall of Fame members and ABC officials. This met exactly the minimum requirement of 75 per cent of votes cast.

Benkovic will be formally inducted into the Hall of Fame during ceremonies at the ABC tournament in Syracuse, N. Y. on April 24.

Jerome (Whitey) Harris, who has captained the St. Louis Budweisers since he organized it in the spring of 1954, has resigned effective June 1. He gave the reason as press of business. He manages Don Carter's Airport Bowl and does instructional work for Brunswick.

Bill Lillard of Chicago now appears to be headed for the Buds next season. Eddie Lubanski of Chicago was given an attractive offer but is reported about to decline because he is expected to organize a new lineup for his present sponsor, Pfeiffer Beer.

Earl Zahn of Milwaukee rolled an 836 series on games of 257, 300; and 279 in the greater Milwaukee All-Star league on March 18 to take the national season's lead. Ray Bluth's 834 on March 12 at St. Louis had been high.

On the local front Jerry Higgins of the A. & C. Music bowling team, posted the third highest series thrown in the Kegler League this season, as he came up with a staggering 651.

Bob Pace and Bill Rambin (Gay's Clothiers), Ralph McNabb (Spatafora's Grocery) and Theo Finkbeiner (A. & C. Music) all have registered 600 or better series to become members in the expanding "600" Club.

Knights of Columbus bowling teams will have a spaghetti dinner at the K. of C. Home, Sunday, April 12, at 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. The two teams will represent Monroe and West Monroe at Memphis, Tenn., at the Southern K. of C. bowling tournament.

The admission price to the dinner is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for the children. The funds will sponsor the trip and expenses for the team.

Latest count on marathon bowlers is 655 consecutive games, by Dennis Durham of Grants Pass, Ore. He rolled them at Tacoma, Wash., averaging 143.

I think this is a terrific feat as I have been averaging about that throwing only three games a week.

NEW RECORDS

Kansas Top Team In Texas Relays

By ED OVERHOLSER
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — California's Don Bowden and Texas' Eddie Southern turned in the key performances Saturday at the Texas Relays as meet records fell in both the one mile and two mile relays.

Bowden, smooth-striding pre-law student, anchored California to a new record in the two-mile relay to go with his anchor job Friday night that set a new unofficial world sprint medley mark.

Southern, who concentrated on hurdles last year, rocketed to an unofficial 45.3 to anchor Texas to a new one-mile relay time of 3:10.4, only one second off the national collegiate mark. He finished 20 yards in front of runner-up North Texas State College.

Ten relays records were broken and one tied in the 2-day track and field carnival. Only two were made Saturday before 13,500 in near ideal weather. One national collegiate record was bettered in the javelin.

Stringbean Bowden, NCAA half-mile record holder and the only American to run a mile in less than 4 minutes, was named the outstanding athlete.

Kansas was selected by the sportswriters as the outstanding team, the second time in three years for Coach Bill Easton's team to get this honor.

California ripped out its new record in the 2-mile relay with Bowden turning in an anchor job that left the field far behind. The time was 7:30.8 to erase the old mark of 7:34.1 set in 1954 by Kansas.

Big Al Oerter of Kansas became the only university competitor to win two events when his record discus sling of 188 feet 2 inches set in the prelims held up as expected. He won the shot put Friday night.

Jerome Scibert, Jack Yerman and Maynard Orme ran the first three 880-yard laps and Bowden glided by in a long margin over runner-up Stanford. Unofficially, Bowden was timed in 1:50.0. Scibert in 1:52.5, Herman in 1:53.8 and Orme in 1:54.5.

Abilene Christian's Bill Wood streaked off the blocks into the teeth of a six-mile per hour wind to take the 100-yard dash by three yards in a classy field.

Woodhouse's time was only a fair 9.7 seconds but he was out in front of Oklahoma's Dee Givens, Big Eight 60-yard dash winner, who finished second and Orland Hazley, of Oklahoma State who was third.

SPRING FOOTBALL

Grads Play Varsity In Tallulah Contest

TALLULAH, La. (Special) — Joe Farlow and Walter Scott; Head football coach Racer Hollards will be Lloyd Jackson, stand and assistant coaches Billy Guyard, and Martin Verhagen will Allen Laird; centers are Perry Beard, Ed Eiland, Charles Newell, and Percy Beard; quarterbacks Gerald Collins, Tommy Neumann, and Truman Collins; halfback Leonard Wall, Carl Williamson, Johnny Byram, Phillip Wheeler, and Billy Querry, and fullbacks Danny Neumann and Leonard Neumann.

Coach Holstead revealed that Leonard Neumann would also play at either of the halfback spots. There will be an admission of 15 and 35 cents charged for the game, all the proceeds going to a picnic for the players.

This will be the rubber game between the seniors and the Trojans since Coach Holstead has been at Tallulah High, The first year the seniors won, 25-7, and last year the Trojans defeated the seniors, 14-7.

This should be a good intra-squad game as both sides will be full of star players.

The probable lineup for the game is as follows:

Seniors — ends H. M. Darlone and John Lard; tackles Dick Brown, Jim Griswold and Phillip Seurria; guards Bruce Faught, John Burns and Danny Barnett; and at center will be Billy Ray Wilson; quarterback Semion Wall; halfbacks Joe Yerger and Sam Collins, and fullback Lefty Russell, a star Trojan a few years ago.

BIGGEST GOLF SHOW*22nd Masters Tournament Draws Finest To Augusta

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The Masters Tournament, golf's annual tribute to the genius of Bob Jones, will be played for the 22nd time next week over the hauntingly beautiful Augusta National course, where President Eisenhower spent last weekend.

The chances are the finish on Easter Sunday will be witnessed by the greatest number of spectators ever to see the final shots of a golf tournament.

The Masters, first major golf competition of the year, annually attracts many of the world's finest players and it probably draws bigger crowds than any other tournament in America. Estimates of 15,000 or more for the last day aren't far wrong, and Augusta National is designed to give the spectators a chance to see the players.

Major changes around the ninth and 18th greens this year eliminated two uncomfortable downhill lies for the galleries. Twelve foot collars were built on which spectators can stand. That means about 1,000 more can see the shots at the 18th instead of just the backs of other spectators.

Then most of the final afternoon's play will be televised nationally—CBS giving staying golf fans a better look at the finish than many of those at the course. They didn't get it a year ago, when Doug Ford shot his winning 66 on the last day so rapidly that he was in the clubhouse long before the cameras went into action.

Ford is expected to defend his title, of course, and virtually all the previous winners of the Masters will be on hand for the first round Thursday. Among them are Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret, both three-time winners; Ben Hogan, who has won the Masters twice and finished second four times, and Cary Middlecoff — another player who seldom appears on an ordinary winter tournament.

In addition, 14 foreign players representing eight nations are slated to compete against the top Americans. Six foreigners finished among the 25 low scorers last year.

The Masters, started in 1934, was a friendly invitation tournament for some of Jones' golfing friends on the course which Bob had created on the wooded, flower-decked site of an old nursery.

The gimmick which immediately made it a major event and gave it the present name that invitations were restricted to golfers who had proved their ability by winning major championships, or by comparable feats. The broad, 6,850-yard Augusta National course added to the tournament's stature because the world's best players never have been able to take it apart with low scores.

Due largely to this feeling, the bird dog people—those who work the pointing dogs—had shied away from codification of quality yardsticks. What a bird dog judge needed, and still needs more than anything else, is the full confidence of the fancy.

Among retrievers, however, where there are more factors of mechanics and less of the art form, codification has become increasingly important.

The supplement announces itself as having a dual objective: greater uniformity in the conduct of trials, and greater uniformity in the judging of performances by retrievers on those trials.

While acknowledging that the so-called natural hunting conditions may vary widely, the committee observes that "there should be little doubt in anyone's mind as to the type of work which constitutes a perfect performance in a given test."

And it notes that "there is an unlimited opportunity for an honest difference of opinion on the severity of the penalty to assess for any given infraction or deviation from perfect work."

Thus, while the supplement spells out prescribed methods of handling guns, birds, signalling and observation that will go far to insure that such details are disturbingly different at different trials, its major contribution may be in a catalogue of faults.

Many an owner whose dog was penalized slightly for a deviation at one trial, is dismayed to have his animal disqualified at the next for a similar infraction. This sort of variation the committee hopes to eliminate by spelling out what shall be considered major faults (usually sufficient to justify elimination from a stake); moderate faults (which become cause for elimination only when doubled up) and minor faults (which individually might warrant no penalty but could accumulate into a moderate fault).

The starting field for Thursday's first round probably will number about 90.

Layne is also a candidate as is George Curtis.

Barkley is the lone newcomer among tomorrow night's gladiators.

Hailing from Macon, Georgia and weighing 217 lbs., Barkley promises "hard times" for the boys in the opposite corner.

Hodgemeyer says he'll be ready for a title match in a short time.

"Commissioner" Silverstein is a nice fellow, it seems that he knows that it takes 30 days to get ready for a real battle and I am going to do my best to get ready for the match."

Silverstein gave Hodgemeyer 30 days to defend his title or lose it.

Brummett, who last week said

"If he (Hodgemeyer) can wrestle, he can defend his title," is anxious to prove his right to meet the champion with a good showing Monday night.

Phil, who is becoming quite popular as a hero after playing a villain for years, teamed with Barney to beat Hodgemeyer and Karl Karlsson in the tag feature last week.

Layne makes his first start here in several weeks tomorrow night.

A former state titleholder, as are Barney, Brummett and Curtis,

Charley says he is "going to do my level best to him (Hodgemeyer) in the tag match Monday."

Charley would like to get another crack at the title that he lost to Barney. Layne and Hodgemeyer will well together, having been partners in several tag bouts in the local arena.

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Sam Snead's often erratic putting was steady in the clutch Saturday as he and Jimmy Demaret outlasted Torakishi "Pete" Nakamura and Koichi Ono in a tense 18-hole exhibition match at the Boca Raton Golf Club.

The U.S. pros, thoroughly beaten by the Japanese pair in last fall's Canada Cup matches in Tokyo, staggered off with a two-stroke victory this time after the foursome went to the final hole all even.

30th Annual Southwestern Relays Slated

LAFAYETTE, La. (UPI) — The 30th annual Southwestern relays will be held April 11 and 12 at Southwestern Louisiana Institute in Lafayette.

Some 100 high school track teams will take part in events April 11, set aside as high school day.

Junior college, college and university teams from several states will compete.

Entries have been received from Louisiana State University, who was the Southeastern Conference track champion of 1957. Most of their veteran members from this championship squad will be returning. They will be reinforced by football star Billy Cannon, a sensational sophomore sprinter who already this year has been clocked at 9.5 in the 100 yard dash.

The University of Texas will attend with their 440 yard dash man, Eddie Southern, and their 440 relay team.

TV Playing It Safe At Masters Tourney

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television networks, unlike golfers, can't afford to gamble. That's why CBS is playing it even safer this year with the telecast of next week's Masters Golf Tournament.

A year ago, Doug Ford, a self-styled "gambler all the way," parlayed a 6-under-par 66 into the greatest finishing round in Masters history. Then, with the title in his pocket, Ford faded from the scene more than an hour before the tournament actually ended.

And while Doug sat in the clubhouse with nothing more to worry about than how to spend his $8,750 first prize, CBS was playing it safe back on the course with the cameras trained on the pre-tournament favorites, Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret.

The TV viewers tuned in to the hour-long show saw some excellent golf, but they must have realized that the suspense the announcers tried valiantly to create just didn't exist. After all, there's little the croupier can say when the bank has already been broken. The bank really couldn't be blamed. It had been set for an hour program which figured to cover the favorites in action over the last four holes. It was just one of those things that Lady Luck sometimes lets go by.

But CBS is determined it won't happen again. Coverage of the final round, Sunday, April 6, has been extended to an hour and half this year. The telecast will run from 4:30 to 6 p.m., EST. There also will be an hour TV coverage on Saturday from 4 to 5 p.m.

The network feels that the hour and a half will insure that viewers will see all the leaders so that there will be little chance of missing the potential winner.

Additionally, CBS had under consideration a plan to film early finishes and have the filmed se quences ready for feed back into the network should there be need for them. However, equipment for

expensive.

CBS radio also will broadcast

the Masters. Fifteen-minute pro grams will be aired at 5:45 p.m.,

EST, Thursday and Friday, and on Saturday and Sunday coverage will be expanded. On Saturday, the Masters will be picked up for 25 minutes at 3:05 p.m., and at 4:

5:10 p.m., for 20 minutes. Sun day's final round will be heard from 2:05 to 2:30 p.m., and from 5:30 to 5:55 p.m.

Jack Dress and Chris Schenck will do the radio broadcasts; Jim

McKay and John Derr the TV.

Nine cameras will be used for

will act as focal points for the camera crews which the network promises will produce the closest

be shown on TV screens.

That the network is serious about giving top TV coverage is

more than a mile of camera, microphone and electronic cables

of the Augusta National course in Augusta, Ga.

And apparently CBS isn't too mad at Mr. Ford. Its promotional material on the TV coverage lists

intimates viewers will get a look at him. It doesn't, however, say

Then Snead, who finished with beautifully to chip within 2 1/2 feet of the pin.

After Snead two-putted for his

a one-on-the 421-yard hole, while the three others missed

With Demaret scoring a 71, the U.S. pair finished with 140 while

70 by Nakamura and a 72 by One.

A crowd of 3,000—said by De marét to be the largest ever to

watched the Americans get a measure of revenge for the nine-stroke victory this time after the four-some went to the final hole all even.

Hawks Measure
Celtics, 104-102

By BOB HOOING

BOSTON (P)—Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit opened up Boston defenses and enabled St. Louis to defeat the Celtics 104-102 Saturday in the opener of the National Basketball Assn. playoff finals.

Hagan scored 33 points. Pettit and both were effective rebounders as the Hawks jumped to a 10 lead in this best-of-seven series re-matching last year's finalists.

Boston's defending champions held Hagan to 10 points in the first half but clever Cliff repeatedly broke loose against taller defenders directly under the Celtics' basket after intermission.

When the defense clamped Hagan out, he hit on eye-opening hook shots before a Boston Garden gathering of 3,662 and a national television audience.

It was a rugged, fast-moving foul-filled battle with Boston's Lou Tsioropoulos and Tommy Heinsohn as well as Hagan fouling out in the final period.

Boston blew an 11-point second period advantage, trailed 59-53 at half time but fought back into an 8-8 lead as the fourth period began.

Hagan hit on two free throws to make it 84-84 on the play on which his old Kentucky teammate, Tsioropoulos, fouled out against him.

The Celtics managed to tie the score twice more after Jack Coleman hit a set shot for the Hawks and the lead changed hands twice more.

With 2:15 to play, Boston moved back to within one point when Bill Russell scored from underneath. That made it 104-100.

Then Pettit got a free throw and a jump shot after a rebound recovery and the lid was on, 104-100.

Frank Ramsey got a pair of free throws for Boston to conclude the scoring.

In the final minute the Celtics' Arnie Nixon missed a hook shot, then another try. Boston got the ball on a jump but Russell recovered too late to beat the buzzer with his try from the corner.

Pettit drove the Celtics mad with his accuracy on jump shots from the top of the key and his jump shots. He also helped foul up the Boston offense by drawing Russell well away from the basket.

Russell contributed his usual 29 rebounds but got only 14 points.

Bob Cousy tallied 27 points and Paul Sherrill 23 to pace the losers.

The second game of the series will be played here Sunday after-

Bassey Risks Crown
In Moreno Scramble

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (P)—World boxing interest turns to Los Angeles next week when featherweight champion Horan "Kid" Bassey of Nigeria meets challenger Ricardo "Pajarito" Moreno of Mexico in a 15-round title fight Tuesday night.

Twenty thousand or more fans are expected to jam Wrigley Field for the battle, which will be neither televised nor broadcast. Long range weather forecasts promise clear skies for the evening.

Bassey, a jolly 25-year-old fellow who learned to fight in the crowded slum sections of his native Calabar and Lagos in West Africa, will be making the first defense of the title he sewed up in Paris June 24, 1957.

Bassey scored a technical knockout over Charlie Hump in the 10th round, ending an elimination series sanctioned by world boxing authorities to fill the throne of the 125-pound division vacated by America's Sandy Saddler.

In previous eliminations, Bassey whipped Miguel Berrios of Puerto Rico in Washington, D.C. Prior to that, Berrios had knocked Carmelo Costa of New York out of contention.

Moreno, the 21-year-old pride of Mexico City, earned his chance at the title on two counts.

Last November he registered a technical knockout over highly regarded Ike Chestnut of New York and, even more significant, he is the boxoffice magnet who will draw literally thousands of his countrymen across the border for the fight.

Few expect this one to last 15 minutes. Bassey $70,000, plus transportation and training expenses for three and Moreno gets a guarantee of $30,000, plus similar expenses.

It will be by far the richest "Pajarito" Moreno of Mexico in a purse for both scrapers. Promoter Cal Eaton hopes for a gate of around $150,000.

Bassey, rated an excellent boxer as well as a puncher, will be the betting favorite among the smart money boys. But by the time Moreno's backers flood the city—and they will—the odds may be about even when the two climb into the ring around 1:45 p.m. CST.

Moreno is a brawler and a puncher but no boxer, and boasts a record of 29 knockouts in the brief span of his 33 fights.

Mexico's flaming spirits hit bottom last year when another of its idols, Raul "Raton" Macias, lost a chance to win the undisputed world bantamweight championship from Alphonse Halimi in Wrigley Field.

Moreno revived interest with his smashing victory over Chestnut, and once again hopes ride high for a world championship for Mexico. Bassey, boxing professionally since he was 16, has had 61 fights. He has won 50, 17 by knockouts, and currently is unbeaten in 20 straight matches.

Bantam King Halimi
Follows Circus Life

PARIS (P)—Alphonse Halimi has two trades, and he is practicing both of them in a highly unlikely locale—the circus.

Halimi is the bantamweight boxing champion of the world. He also is a tailor. He learned to cut and stitch before he learned quicker ways to make his fortune with his hands.

But the life of the baby-faced little Algerian now centers around the travelling Amar Circus. Starting Feb. 15, and going on until November, Halimi is appearing once or twice a day in the center ring as a competitive attraction to clowns, elephants and jugglers.

To while away idle hours between performances, Halimi decided to prove his dexterity to his circus boss, Paul Amar. That is how Amar can now tell visitors "Yes, sir, you see this tuxedo I'm wearing? It was made by the world champion."

Other fighters have turned to the entertainment field to stretch out their careers, or pad their earnings, but few have made the move so quickly. Halimi won clear cut recognition as the world champion only last November when he beat Raul Macias of Mexico. That was Halimi's 22nd professional fight.

Halimi joined the circus because he wanted to keep working. His contract provides that he can take time out whenever necessary foristic activity. But already he has defeated the two top second-

Promised Land
Caps Campbell
Memorial Race

BOWIE, Md. (P)—Promised Land, the training handiwork of Hirsch Jacobs since the colt's birth four years ago, spurted down the stretch Saturday to run off with the $113,300 John B. Campbell Memorial Handicap.

Calumet Farm's 1957 Kentucky Derby winner Iron Liege, with $87,179 bet on him to win, faded badly to a next-to-last sixth in Calumet's first try for a major victory at Bowie.

Promised Land, a grey son of Jacobs' Palestinian, scored by two lengths over Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Find in the race for first prize of $72,645.

H. W. Bishop Stabe's Bernburgoo rushed in to take third and Wayne Kendrick's Challa was fourth. Paper Tiger, Promised Land's stablemate, preceded Iron Liege across the finish and Ruff Acres Farm's Flying Chief came behind.

Promised Land, in winning his second straight $100,000—added event, went around the sun-swathed mile and sixteenth in a modest 1:43 4/5. It was more than three seconds slower than the track record set by Vanderbilt's Social Outcast when he won the Campbell in 1955.

Bettors on Find were against the Calumet reputation born by Iron Liege collected at the rate of $7.60, $3.80 and $5.20.

The payoff on Find was an odd one, $7 for second and $15.80 for third. Bernburgoo's last ditch backers go: $20.20.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela held Promised Land in the middle of the pack during the early running after being pinched off at the start.

He began his move with half a mile to go "and he took," said the jockey.

"I tried to steal the race and got beat," declared jockey Joe Cutrone on Find. He had opened up four-length lead going around the bend into the homestretch.

Dave Erb, the pilot aboard Iron Liege, could find no extenuating circumstances for the colt which had won once and been runner-up in four previous races this year.

"I was very surprised and disappointed in his race," Erb said frankly. "He was on the inside, had the best part of the race track, and had no excuses. He never even took hold of the bit."

Iron Liege was running third in the good striking position going down the backstretch. But he wilted badly in the heat of the turn for home.

The winner earned a net purse of $17,445 and now has run his total to $63,145.

ART-LOVING JOCKEY

Pearson Enters Big
To Ride In Moscow

PARIS (P)—America's art-loving jockey is set to saddle up in Moscow—and the Russians seem to think it's a great idea.

The jockey, Bill Pearson of La Jolla, Calif., just put finishing touches on a request for a visa at the Russian embassy in Paris.

"When we first started out," says Pearson, who won $173,000 on a U.S. TV quiz show not long ago answering questions about art, "I think the Russians in the embassy thought it was some kind of gag. But when we convinced them we really wanted to ride a horse at the Moscow track they couldn't have been nicer."

"Matter of fact, the rooms we had to go into at the embassy while we were setting it all up kept getting bigger and bigger. So I guess that's a good sign."

Even though the Russians in Paris were all smiles, the question of a Moscow trip is not entirely settled. There'll still be a wait for a visa, which Pearson plans to sit out in his masterpiece-decorated home in La Jolla.

"I feel sure the thing will come off," he said as his manager, Ernie Anderson, look on. "The Russians all but assured us it could be arranged."

If it can, Pearson will be the first professional American jockey to race in Moscow. And that raises the question of what do you

Mr. What Captures Grand National Steeplechase

AINTREE, Eng. (P)—Mr. What won the Grand National Steeplechase by 30 lengths Saturday for his nostalgic Irish-American owner, David Jones Coughlan, who sold Florida real estate and wants someday to go back to Miami.

The easy victory in the richest of field of 31 starters.

Mr. What is the 38th Irish winner in the last 58 Grand Nationals.

Since World War II every year three National Handicaps have been won by an Irish horse.

The teacher of Coughlan's 19-year-old daughter, Maureen, called the turn 3,500 miles away.

Coughlan, now in the chemical manufacturing business in England and Ireland, said: "I paid a fair price several years ago for

Mr. What from my trainer, Tom Taaffe.

"I'm a County Cork boy and I now live near Dublin, but my heart is still American.

"All the members of my family are American and my daughter Maureen is at the convent in Boston. It was her teacher, whose name I think is Maureen Temple, who had the dream.

"That dream made me gently confident, quietly like, not boldly confident. I told my friends to get something on him and they did. I didn't."

Odds on the winner were 18-1 and he was assigned the minimum weight of 146 pounds. Tiberetta carried 146, Green Drill 150, and Wyndburgh 157. F. S. B. had topweight of 166 pounds.

Mr. What is an 8-year-old gelding, and he was assigned the minimum weight of 146 pounds. Tiberetta, a mare who jumps surer than any other horse in Britain, was second, 15 lengths ahead of Green Drill. Both started at odds of 28-1.

Although Mr. What never took the lead until the race was almost three quarters finished, his backers had scare on the 30th and final jump. The horse, who had taken over the lead on the 22nd, or the famed Becher's Brook, was way out in front by Grand Inquisitor out of 30th when he clipped the top of the hedge and bobbed momentarily. It seemed for a moment as if he might go down, but Freeman Coughlan's first money was yanked him up and he recovered to go on and win easily.

The 6-1 favorite, Wyndburgh, was fourth; Goosander, a good mudder, was fifth and E. S. B., the 1956 winner, was sixth. Hollybank was seventh and last in the

Mother's Day For An Orphan

Chief Clerk, Tennessee Central Railroad, Nashville, Tenn.

The boys dormitory of the St. John's Orphanage in Knoxville, Tennessee, was on the top floor of the rambling old brick house. I lay on a narrow cot suffering from malnutrition and a severe cold.

One day I heard slow, soft footsteps on the creaking stairs. I waited, then opened my feverish eyes, and I saw standing over me a kindly lady with a sweet smile and deep concern in her warm, blue eyes. For a moment I thought I was dreaming.

"How do you feel today?" she asked. Her voice was tender, intimate. But in all ten, tear-filled years, no one had ever asked me that before, and I did not know how to answer; so I could only look up at the woman. "I'm Mrs. Oswell, the new matron," she said, "and I want to help you get well." She went to the table for my medicine and gave it to me, then asked: "How would you like a bowl of hot soup? I'll bring it up to you."

Filled with Wonder

I continued to stare at her, unable to think, unable to speak. Then she bent over, and I felt her lips on my cheek. That was the first display of love I could remember, and I was filled with wonder.

Love was something I could not understand, but I had sensed the aching for it during the long nights in the orphanage. Nor could I understand the deaths of my mother and father when I was four and eight years old, and the poverty which had made my childhood so bleak that I had no happiness to treasure.

I understood only that I was alone in the world. The mind of a boy sees the whole life as it were something already wrought and unchangeable, and so I believed I would always be alone. This is a crushing fear to face.

Even Mrs. Oswell was unable to dim it at first. She was a registered nurse, and with her care I was up in a few days. We orphans attended a nearby public school, and I was soon back at my desk.

Underweight

Yet, there was much more she had to do. I was much underweight and I had scant appetite. Mrs. Oswell saw to it, by fascinating us with stories after meals, that I had time to idle through my food before we children were dismissed from table.

Generally, I grew aware of the special favor she was bestowing on me. But I saw, too, that she was giving individual care to others, and I longed for a clue to know that she might like me in a particular way that was meant only for me.

One day we were working together in the dormitory, and Mrs. Oswell said to me, "Troy, would you like to become my son?" I was too surprised to speak. I kept my back to her, and after several moments I managed: "Yes . . . ma'am . . . Mother."

My only thought was that she loved me, that I had someone that I was no longer alone.

Legally Adopted

It was only a few months after she came to the orphanage that the adoption papers were arranged, and I became her legally adopted son.

I learned she had one son, already grown, and the father of twin boys. She had reared him to manhood while working as a nurse at a little Episcopal mission in Tennessee's Cumberland Mountains. Now 44, she again was taking on the difficult task of bringing up another son.

The days at the orphanage became happier for me. Of course, when I deserved it, I had to take my turn at switchings along with the other children. But now I looked forward to the events that each new day would bring.

In those days, my new mother earned only $50 dollars a month; it was a meager salary, but I looked forward to the day each week when she went into town. She never failed to bring me a bag of chocolate candy from the dime store. I would meet her at the streetcar line and, clutching the bag of candy, walk, smiling, back to the orphanage.

To Church

Now was the spiritual side of living neglected. Each Sunday morning, after thorough scrubings and inspections, all 30 children of the orphanage, led by my mother and her assistant, boarded a streetcar for town. At the large, downtown church all of us older boys served as acolytes or choir boys.

Days, months, years flew by, and I found myself finishing junior high school. The June graduation exercises called for a white suit for officers of the class. Yet, on Mother's small salary, a new white suit seemed out of the question for me. However, she provided the suit, and smiled proudly as I sat on the stage with the other officers.

"You looked fine," she commented later, "white on the inside as well as out. That's the way I want you to be, always."

Finished High School

A short while after this Mother resigned as matron of St. John's Orphanage and returned to her nursing practice in the small town of Harriman, Tennessee. But, because Mother wanted me to finish high school in Knoxville, I stayed on and took residence at the YMCA.

With Mother's help and by working after school, I started college. Then World War II broke out and I volunteered.

Suddenly I was grown up. Mother came to see me off at the station. As I sat in the train coach and watched her disappear into the distance, I sensed her fears for me in the years ahead. Once more I was to be alone in the world.

But I never really was alone again. Though Mother's Day has turned the calendar 17 times since then, each year those things she gave me grow a little brighter, a little more precious. Mother is old now, and infirm, but the years of love and the sense of God's presence which gave me are ever strong and near.

It has been called the most electrifying entertainment brought to the upmost, the Paramount film to the screen in our time. The suspense of the ending of "Witness for the Prosecution" is breath-taking that the management of the Paramount will not seat any patrons during the last fifteen minutes of each feature.

Ex-Red Army Gives Cost Of Sputnik I

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — A former Red Army corporal claims he witnessed rocket disasters costing scores of lives before the Soviet Union launched Sputnik 1 last Oct. 4.

Writing in the Liverpool Daily Post, Seriosha Asaiev said one long-range ballistic missile crashed and wiped out 130 of the 138 inhabitants of a small Arctic fishing village.

Asaiev said the missile, scheduled to come down 600 miles away in the Kara Sea, changed course a few seconds after launching. The village's wooden houses and small ships in its harbor were obliterated by exploding rocket fuel. "All further tests with this type of rocket were immediately suspended on orders from Moscow," said Asaiev. "A committee of high-ranking officials arrived next day, interrogated everyone and arrested several people."

Numerous unofficial reports have circulated in the West before this of Soviet rocket failures. One report said that a large missile believed designed to launch a larger earth satellite than the 1,120-pound Sputnik II exploded in central Russia just before Christmas.

Stennis Reports U. S. Is Ahead In Missile Race

STARVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) said today the United States' superiority in military strength prevents attack by other nations because of fear of our "tremendous power of retaliation."

But, he warned the Mississippi State College Alumni Assn. meeting, advances in the missile field "by our adversaries hold the potential of a superiority that could make us a secondary power."

Actual and constructive world peace, he said, can be attained only through mutual understanding among people of the world. This understanding can come only which in turn comes from education.

Stennis pointed to the nation's college as the gases of worldwide understanding and said the colleges should continue their practice of encouraging their most likely students instead of turning to the theory of mass education.

Pryor, an oboist, will perform the Handel "Third Concerto for Oboe," Schumann's "Third Romance for Oboe," and "Piece" by Pierre.

Deal of Start, on Sunday, March 16, in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. E. C. Haynes of North Monroe.

The bride was lovely in a blue lace ballerina length dress over crystal taffeta. The snug bodice swirled into a full skirt. Blending color nylon fashioned a draped cowl neckline floating out in twin back panels. A corsage of purple throated orchids was pinned to her shoulder.

Mrs. Louise Hardy, sister of the groom, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a turquoise dress fashioned with a boat neckline and tiny unpressed waist pleats. Mr. Don B. Wilkes served his brother as best man.

The bride's mother was attired in navy blue crepe with white accessories.

The groom's mother selected a periwinkle blue dress with matching accessories.

A reception followed in the dining room. The bridal table, covered with a beautiful hand-drawn cloth, was adorned with the three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a bride and groom. The cake was baked and decorated by the bride's aunt, Mrs. E. C. Haynes. Assisting at the table was Mrs. Charlie Jones.

Carpet Problem Caused By Ink

Although ink spills on rugs and carpets are among the most common household mishaps, they often create serious problems.

The reason is that almost every manufacturer has his own formula. Remedies which will remove one will often set another so that it can never be removed.

Use white tissues to blot up as much as possible before calling a competent rug cleaner who has a knowledge of textile chemistry.

To prevent bread from getting too brown while baking, put a piece of brown wrapping paper on top for the last 15 minutes of baking time.

Nail Polish Stain Easy To Remove

Use of nail polish remover on rugs and carpets can be disastrous to some of the new synthetic fibers now in use.

Many housewives assume that it is the logical thing to use for nail polish spills only to find that it leaves holes in their rugs. Some paint thinners have the same effect. To be safe, they say, neither

On Dit'

by Denise

Everyone is watching for the dogwood to break into bloom, but the temperamental tree seems a little afflicted with stage fright. So who's complaining? April will have to go some to top these sights: the JACK HOWARD home on Iselin Drive, with blue hydrangeas and blue Dutch iris were planted in white saucers against the slate gray house. CLIFFORD DOUGLASS' VANS set out these yellow pansies on the garden, along the path of the camellias which were planted by the girl's mother, MARY FAULKNS.

At the home of another daughter, MARY FAULKNS, was MRS. WILLIAM B. HARVEY, and her children, POWELL, FRANCES BROWN, and ERIC. The young couple, who are members of the FAULKNS, are looking forward to their wedding in April.

with pale pink tapers. The meal began with an unusual oyster dish and continued through chicken broiled in herbs with wild rice and beans with almonds. Hostesses for luncheon TRUDY, FRANCES, JANE BROWN, and DOROTHÉ GARRETT . . . Edie came here from St. Louis, where she had attended the national YWCA convention as one of Pennsylvania's two voting delegates. She is the only woman member of Harrisburg's Citizen's Advisory council, and is president of the League of Women Voters there.

Arriving Wednesday will be ANGELYN and WALLY JONES and their children KATE and SHANNON. They are coming up from Baton Rouge to be the guests of Anderson's parents, the J. W. SWIFTS, for the Easter weekend.

The HAROLD PARKERS spent their vacation here as did the ladies who their son assisted. The dining table was guests of her parents, the C. J. CONNERS with a silver bowl filled BAMFORDS. They flew over from with camellias on an unusual salt Scotland, where Harold is a graduate of TRUDY AIRON, and ate student at the University of LESSIE GARRETT alternated at Edinburgh. The BILL MATTHEWS honored the couple at a dinner, where the entire party enjoyed viewing the beautiful pictures of the Scotch countryside made by the Parkers.

Guests of the WILLIAM WEINBERGS will be their children, who are gathering from distant points. Their daughter, MRS. RICHARD COHEN, and her daughter, MARY BETH, are getting in today from Springfield, Ill., and will be here a week. CHUCK WEINBERG came in Wednesday from LSU for the long weekend.

Dogpatch, US, was the setting when PAT and GEORGE SPENCER hosted a costume party in their home Saturday night. Doors were covered with oilcloth and pictures of Dogpatch inhabitants, while large posters of Li'l She is the daughter of the late Abe and the other Yokums were used on the walls. Chairs were covered with assortments of sacks . . . Kickapoo Joy Juice of Marion, and broccoli dip were served in the den which was designated as Lower Slobovia. Seen sampling tarts were BILLIE SALLEY as Nightmare Alice, PAT EAGWELL as Daisy Mae, and CODY ROSAMUND as Honest Abe.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Spring Branch High School in Houston, Tex., and is now employed with an oil company in Houston. The groom-elect

Spring Hat
Upswept Look
Is Young Look

You'll get a lift in more ways than one from your new Spring hat this season since it will feature the "Upswept Look" which is making fashion headlines this Spring. Hats in the "Upswept Look" give a youthful and light-hearted feeling and appearance that you'll find irresistible, whether you're under or over twenty-one.

Upswept lines are featured in both brims and crowns. Skyward-sweeping brims are rolled up all round, breton-fashion, turned up at the back or dramatically arched over the brow in vaulted curves. Crowns climb tall as a steeple or lift gently to give "air-space" between hair and hat. To emphasize this young, upward movement, most hats are worn off-the-face or cut away above the brow to reveal an inch or more of hairline.

The height of fashion is the tall, tall turban. Wound in smooth folds, upward and back, these new Spring turbans will make you feel "romantically pretty" with their boldly-patterned silks and cottons or formally pleated and Shirred delicate chiffons and silk organzas. Head-covering turbans of ruffled veiling, flower petals or high-piled blossoms are upswept in tall, cone-shapes for festive wear.

Hemlines and Hats Go Up

go higher, too. But the 1958 "chemise cloche" avoids the heavy-headed look of its predecessors by sweeping "up" from a high-sitting headband.

Even the simplest caps have an airy, upswept look this Spring. Cuff brims turn sharply upward. Crowns are aerated so that they skim the curls, rather than hug close to the head. Trimmings lift higher, with up-reaching flowers and floating bows.

Sailors have an upswept look set back on the head with straight brims slanting up from the face. Others have high, inflated crowns. Soft, relaxed brims are lifted up from the hairline on raised bands. Steep-sided scoop brims are also elevated in this fashion, often cut away at the front or folded up at the back in an upswept curve. Rollers and bretons abound.

The easiest way to wear the loose silhouette is in two pieces, a trade publication says. Bodices are often sleeveless and fall in a lean, straight line to the hips, marked by a contrasting band which is repeated at the collarless, often-squared neckline. Knit, sharp pleats add grace to the skirt, and allow for easy movement yet keep the vertical line. The pleats also hold the dress away from the body, making it cooler for summer wear.

Indoor plants need a sponge bath occasionally to keep them shiny and healthy. Plants thrive on this treatment. Just wipe each leaf off gently with tissues dipping crown and tiny brims. To ped in sudsy warm water and balance the higher hemline, hats dry off with clean tissue.

Let the loveliness of our fragrant BLOOMING PLANTS and CUT FLOWERS radiate joy in your home . . . Carry your EASTER GREETINGS to church, relatives and friends. We will be happy to suggest the perfect gift from our beautiful collection of flowering plants, cut flowers and corsages.

Double Rations Of Shaded Lawn

By AUDREY DAWSON

It is hard to maintain a good lawn under trees, particularly if they are shallow rooted. The soil is at least six inches deep. The trees are the shallow rooted type — so, if you have trouble with the grass growing under trees, the following suggestions may help. Fertilize the grass frequently at twice the normal rate. Prune trees so that more light will fall on the grass. Punch holes around the tree two to four feet deep with a crowbar or a stick. As far out as the branches reach, put fertilizer in the holes, this spreads best with grass nutrients. Remove fallen leaves and grasses. It grows best under dry conditions in direct sunlight. It can be planted at any time when the soil is not frozen.

English Ivy is another evergreen vine that thrives in shaded areas, but will grow in direct sunlight. It can be planted in any time when the soil is not frozen. English Ivy is another evergreen vine that thrives in shaded areas, but will grow in direct sunlight. It develops a very dense mat that is particularly useful on steep banks and around base of trees, but is slower covering the ground than the periwinkle.

Locating the Laundry

The idea of locating the laundry in the bathroom is growing in popularity and the modern bathroom very often assumes this added function. Some women find this combination more satisfactory than the kitchen laundry arrangement because the bathroom is usually near the place where most items of laundry are used and stored. A second bath, is particularly suited for the laundry since it is furnished to take care of humidities. The stacked washer/dryer or the combination unit is especially desirable in the laundry bath because of space requirements. A drip-dry area for clothes can be designed to serve as a shower.

In today's concept of house design, the laundry can conveniently be located in any of several places. The homemaker's work preference the general plan of the house and the type of floor covering usually are the determining factors.

Hints for Homemakers

Try using a bit of orange as a press cloth when you are especially anxious to see what you are pressing.

Two strips of elastic, on the underside of a wooden ironing board, makes a holder for your pressing cloth. Tack strips at ends, and place them about four inches apart. Your press cloth will always be at hand when you need it.

It's thrifty to learn a new meat cut each time you go to the market.

Turn down the heat and save the meat — meat shrinks at high temperature.

Using your machine unthreaded is an excellent way to save time in making the various markings on the garment you are making. Leave pattern on material and neatly stitch.

Frozen certain salads may become watery when thawed. This can be prevented by reducing amount of water specified in most recipes.

THE HOME SHIFT

Reset Violets, Prune Azaleas

By MILDRED SWIFT

We wake up in a new world every morning. Every day another plant blooms or puts out new leaves. You're busy because every day you see out doing some of the garden jobs so necessary at this time of the year. The nurseries and seed stores are crowded. We're all trying to beat the weather deadline.

More Work!

March or April are the months for dividing and resetting violets. The little plant seems to disappear unless reset every three years. Violets love plenty of humus worked in the soil. Some cottonseed meal and bone meal (half and half) will help to make the plants healthy and bloom more profusely. Watch for red spider mites.

Watch for the webworms on your crab apple. If you can see these and spray with malathion before they form the web, you'll save lots of work. After the web is formed it completely encloses literally hundreds of old roses. Then you'll have to take a pole, open the tent-like web and the tent down and burn it.

You could burn this web in the tree, but since the crab apple is not a large tree, the burned spots are so disfiguring. Get Busy!

Yes, because azaleas should be pruned while they're blooming. Then you can enjoy the blossoms in your home or church. If you have a plant that has two or three long, bare woody branches with a topknot of leaves and blooms at the end, cut that limb way back where it joins the main trunk. Takes a hard heart to do that, but honest you'll be proud of your healthy shrub with its new growth later on.

Cut the oldest canes from the flowering quince. Make this cutting low where the cane puts out from the ground. Prune popcorn sprouts the same way. Old wood in any plant is not going to bloom after a year or so.

After the bearded iris has bloomed, divide if the plants are too thick. Work bone meal in the soil when transplanting. Plant shallow, with the rhizome barely covered with soil. These iris are much prettier if planted in a bed to themselves, rather than planting in front of shrubbery. A bed of iris in bloom is a never-to-be-forgotten sight. You realize then they are truly named, iris or rainbow.

Lovely Bulbs

The ground covers of scilla are lovely. This is an undemanding little bulb. They come back year after year, the blue and white flower arrangers love their dainty

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Wistaria Finds Home In South

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Although the different kinds of Wistaria, the oriental plants were not sent to Europe until after the English had grown our Southern wistaria for a century.

Like so many oriental plants which have been brought to America, and especially to the South, wistaria has "found a new home" here. It likes it, it grows so rapidly that it is necessary to control it. Pruning is good for wistaria, and this vine is one of the handsomest flowering climbers in the world. Do not plant it just anywhere, however.

Strong Arbor

A very strong arbor is needed to support wistaria. In fact, only arbor your columnist ever saw that really looked up to the job is the massive arbor at Biltmore House in Asheville, N. C. In England, some fine arbors are made of iron. The vines cover them from sight, so they do not look bad. With several trimmings a year you can train wistaria onto almost any sort of train that your wavy feet will convince you to curl up with a good book and start afresh tomorrow.

So let's start with the choice of cleaning — day shoes. If your reasoning follows the "let's be comfortable and slip into these scuff" line, you're finished before you begin. You won't be comfortable and in a couple of hours your weary feet will convince you to curl up with a good book and start afresh tomorrow.

Wistaria City

In Summerville, S. C., one can see a whole town that was long since taken over by wistaria. It grows up the trees and all over the place in a wonderful and bewildering shower. Few of us can afford such an abundance of wistaria. Once the vines get up into the trees, they may choke and strangle the trunks.

Do not put a wistaria up one of your favorite trees. If you have to have a vine up a tree, get up on a ladder and fix a long piece of the wistaria high in the tree, without allowing it to ever touch itself about the trunk.

Love will conquer evil—if you dye enough Easter eggs.

Palace accounts during the reign of England's Edward I in the 13th century show the purchase of "four hundred and a half eggs" to be "stained in boiling or covered with gold leaf" for distribution to the royal household.

It goes back much farther, however.

Many a pagan culture celebrated a spring festival—the end of winter and the return of the sun—and it was the egg which held a place of honor as the fertility symbol of earth's reawakening. Earliest records show egg-dyeing was established custom among ancient Egyptians, Phoenicians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, Goths and Norse.

In the Christian Easter festival, incorporating many ancient usages but transforming their religious significance, the egg became the symbol of the Resurrection, and the red coloring represented Christ's blood.

Ruston Homemaker Is Woman Of Many Talents

Specialties Are Business And Art

By MARY ANNE CORPIN

Staff Writer

A woman of many talents - that's the only way to describe Mrs. Gordon Dodds, Ruston homemaker, business woman and artist.

She has the unusual hobby of making picture frames, small wishing wells, planters — and anything else possible — from seashells, and garfish scales. Ceramic plaques are an easy diversion for her. Crocheting . . . everything from baby jackets to entire bedsprads — takes part of her time.

She also makes lamp bases and other decorative pieces, with molding plaster — but when finished, they look like wood.

Besides all this, she has found time to keep house, raise three children, and occupy a responsible position in the accounting department of a Monroe firm.

"I've been crocheting for many years, but I just took up the shell - work in 1957, and the lamp base is a new project this year," revealed the pleasant lady.

Using a "hairpin frame" and a crochet hook, she crochets around two long, parallel sticks, and the net result is scarves, baby jackets, doilies, pillowcases and bed spreads.

Graceful, Lovely

Each piece is graceful, lovely, but substantial enough to hold up under use.

Inspiration for the shellwork came from Mrs. Dodd's sister-in-law, who resides at Magnolia Beach, Texas, on the Gulf Coast.

Shells of all kinds wash up on the coast, and sometimes the shells are used by residents for hobby-work.

"I've gotten most of my shells from the Gulf coast — Florida and Texas. Others come from the coast below New Orleans, and recently my aunt brought me two large boxes of the small shells that are hard to find around here," she explained.

The first thing I made with shells was a planter. I bought a plastic planter with its own drainage system. My husband, who constructs all the wood bases for the shells, built a wooden box to go around the outside of the planter," she revealed.

Then, using household cement, she glued shells, in all sizes and shapes, onto the box in a pattern.

Plant Arrangement

The result is a plant arrangement, seemingly growing out of a sea-shell border.

Tulip shells, snail shells, pointers, conch shells make up the arrangement.

Picture frames and the wishing well are constructed in much the same way — shells on a wooden base.

The miniature wishing well looks like something out of a Walt Disney creation. Circular and pear - shaped shells cover the bottom, plants grow in the center of the well, and garfish scales form a mosaic-type roof.

"I get the garfish scales from Bayles fish market. I paint them over with every color, using model airplane paint and nail polish, let them dry, then place each individual scale on the roof," she pointed out, adding that she also paints some of the shells.

For the ceramic wall-plaques she merely used two identical paper designs, often cut from specialty - purchased cards.

Design 'Smiles'

The design, such as a baby bear or a little old-fashioned girl, is placed at the bottom of a mold, face down. Molding plaster is poured on top of it, and when the plaster dries and can be lifted out of the mold, the design "smiles" out at you.

"I always make them in twos, so that any of my friends who want them can have a set to hang on the wall," the versatile lady commented.

Her latest venture in the design field is molding plaster, made into pieces with a surface texture and appearance of tree trunks and logs.

"Anything round can be used as a base, including tin cans," she laughed.

The molding plaster is placed on the base, and then the ridges which appear in natural wood are applied, by making streaks in the plaster with a sharp object.

"The plaster has a rough surface until it is smoothed out, so much of the grainy texture of wood is very easy to obtain," Mrs. Dodds pointed out.

By using a base with a hollow center, she made a lamp — with the wiring going through the center. Another "log" serves as a stand for two flower pots, and a small "stump" is an ashtray.

Mrs. Dodds cleverly placed a ceramic bird onto the stump, so the ashtray looks like a small bird bath.

"Last Sunday, I found out how to make molds for just about anything," she stated, and added that she had ordered liquid rubber for the process.

"You take any object — like a figure of an animal — and paint over it with liquid rubber. When the rubber dries, you cover it with molding plaster, and when the whole thing is dry, you either lift the original object out of the rubber, or slit the plaster and then lift it out. That way, you have a one - piece of two-piece mold," she explained.

The plaster holds the rubber mold in shape, and fresh plaster can be poured into the rubber mold, to get a replica of the original object.

Already thinking about future projects, she confided that she hopes to build a miniature, shell - covered ferris wheel.

"The 'seats' will be small flower boxes, covered with shells, and the entire wheel will have a shell design," stated the talented lady.

Story Of Gallant Lady Of The Seas

By ROGER GREENE

How an American battleship broke the backbone of Japanese defense in the bitter struggle for Okinawa was a story lost in the mists of World War II.

Now the tale emerges as an epitaph to a gallant lady of the fleet.

The battleship was the Mississippi, oldest of the great battle queens in Navy service as late as mid-1956. She was just past her 30th birthday when wrecking crews tore her apart.

Her adversary, in one of the war's strangest engagements, was Shuri Castle, an ancient fortress with stone walls 20 feet thick and 40 feet high.

The Mississippi was the second U.S. warship of that name to visit Shuri Castle.

In 1853 Commodore Matthew C. Perry sailed his flagship, the original Mississippi, on his famed mission to open Japan's long-closed trade doors to the world. On the way, he stopped at Shuri Castle to pay his respects to the royalty of the Ryukyu Islands, of which Okinawa is one.

In World War II the Japanese made the castle the cornerstone of their defense of Okinawa which U.S. troops invaded April 1, 1945.

Assaulting American Marines and soldiers of the 77th U.S. Infantry Division were stymied by the suicidal Japanese defenders.

By May, 1945, the tactical situation was this:

Combined Army-Marine forces had driven the Japanese into the southern end of Okinawa on a line running from Naha on the west coast through Shuri Castle to Yonabaru Airport on the eastern shore.

The gun-bristling castle, built 401 years before, lay about 3,000 yards east of Naha, the capital city.

It would have taken an enormous toll to storm or flank the castle. Field artillery and aerial assault merely nicked the mammoth walls.

On the night of May 24, 1945, while Japanese kamikaze planes struck again and again American warships offshore, an officer from the 77th Division set out in a small boat for the Mississippi. He carried an urgent plan.

"It's hell of an order," he told Capt. H. J. Redfield Jr., skipper of the Ole Miss, "but it's the only way we can get at the Japs."

The order called for the Mississippi to breach the high wall in two places and destroy the rock-ribbed castle itself.

Capt. Redfield summoned his gunnery officer, Cmdr. Richard Lane.

"Now look here, Guns," he said, "we've got plenty of bullets. Find the range and pour it on thick!"

All through the night, the Mississippi's navigator, Cmdr. Richard E. Bly, studied charts and maps to plot a passage through treacherous shoals for a closer firing position. At 5:30 a.m., with the sun rising in a blured red ball through the overcast, Bly was ready.

The harsh silhouette of Shuri Castle, shrouded in gray gloom on a distant ridge, was invisible from the ship's bridge. But bombardment expert, Lt. Cmdr. John O'Leary, mathematically pinpointed the target range.

Precisely at 7:18 a.m., the right gun of No 1 turret spewed a sheet of crimson flame into the mist — and the Mississippi's calling card was on route to Shuri Castle.

Through his binoculars, Redfield could see nothing but over the radio from an Army fire-control party ashore, came an exultant yell:

plants growing in the well, and painted garfish scales for the roof. Planter at right is her first try at shell-work, and two crocheted baby jackets are on either side of the planter. (Staff photo by John J. Fogelman)

Underwater Rocks To Be Pulverized

By ELMER VOGEL

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—A pair of underwater rocks, long a terror to ships and, in earlier days, to unfathomed wives in the Yucaipa Indians, will be pulverized this week in man's greatest nonatomic blast.

Known as Ripple Rock, they are actually small submarine mountains, now vast hollow lumps of explosives awaiting the blast signal.

The Canadian Research Council suggested the removal job could be done by tunneling under the narrow and up into the two cones, planting some 1,400 tons of explosives and shooting the top off the rocks.

A shaft now has been sunk to a depth of 570 feet on Maud Island. At its base, workmen tunneled to a west-southwest angle for 2,000 feet to a position directly beneath the North Rock, with a 400 foot fork to the South Rock.

They played another dreadful role. The story goes that Yucaipa Indians left swallows caught cheating on their husbands on the rocky pinnacles — then apparently closer to the surface than the present 9-foot minimum clearance — at low tide. They were swept to their deaths by the rising waters.

The shafts are equipped with electric hoists to haul men and material in packing the 1,400 tons of high explosives into the rock.

The Yucaipa legend also has it that hoarses demonstrated their courage by standing atop the rocks at low water while their pedestalous known nonatomic blast at vibrated perilously beneath them.

Promontory Point, Utah, Jan. 6. Despite the perilous rocks, some when 1,000 tons was detonated to 2,000 large passenger and freight vessels use the passage. Utah blasting agent was less powerful than the blast of 9,000 tons.

The tunnels have every safety device. In two years work by crews of 40 to 77 men there have been no serious accidents.

W. Monroe Candidates Give Views In Public Discussion

By LYNN GARRETT

Staff Writer

Kicking off with a brief talk by B. F. Cummings, West Monroe Junta Chamber of Commerce president, the West Monroe political forum Friday night featured by 12 of the 14 candidates, and an open session for questions.

The forum was sponsored by the Jaycees as part of their "Get Out The Vote" project. A. J. Lester and R. C. "Dick" Jolissaint, both seeking council posts, were not present. The audience of about 65 persons, in marked contrast to the 1,000 the Jaycees were seeking, attended the program.

Marlin Hattaway, candidate for mayor, was the first political speaker. He said he is "not a politician, but rather a businessman, and running a city is big business." "I'm not making any accusations," he said, "but if elected I would like to do something for some of the lower - paid city employees." He also touched on a street and drainage program, and recreation. "I have put on a 100 per cent clean campaign and so have Mr. Norris and those running for council," he said. "I am proud to be part of such a good campaign.

Mayor J. Allan Norris, seeking re-election to his post, gave his background as a college graduate, school principal, and association with the banking business. He thanked the council and citizens for their past cooperation, and assured that the streets that were damaged by the sewerage project to the council, noted that the accomplishments have come from were, if not better. "I hope you the cooperation of the citizens will allow me to further participate in the progress of West Monroe and Heard said the city also lacks more and greater progress," he said. "I hope by re-electing me as your have done my very best and will continue to do so if you will re-elect me."

Final Speaker

Jack Russell, running for a council seat and final speaker of the evening, vowed to cooperate in making West Monroe bigger and better. "I will do all in my power to bring this about," he said. "I want to work for the betterment of all."

During the lively forum that followed, several questions were asked, both of the present administration and of the newcomers. Norris was asked if he was in favor of a city sales tax, to which he replied that he would be if that were what the residents wanted, but if they didn't, he wouldn't push it.

Speaking next was Roy Cash, also a candidate for re-election to the council. He said he felt the elimination of parking on Cypress Street was one of the best things accomplished, and also mentioned that the city's book-keeping system has been completely revamped. "If you re-elect gineer has said it will be adequate throughout the city limits. Norris was queried as to whether there are any plans being made to annex new areas of the city at this time, to which he replied there were none at present.

It was asked if there are any areas designated as future industrial sites, and Hood answered that the planning commission is working on this.

Street Program

The question was raised as to wage increases for city employees how the street program would be has not been thought of, and paid for, and Heard commented that such increase Hood answered that such increase that there are three ways to do whenever possible the pay stay this — either by a bond issue, by property owner subscription cards will be raised. "We are or by taking the money from the paying on the basis of what the general fund. He added that he city can afford out of the general believed a bond issue for that fund," he said. Heard added that purpose could be passed. Russell would be for an increase if he said he felt subscription would be the funds were available, as did cheaper, to which Heard replied Dyer. Hattaway said he felt some that when subscription is attempted, owners of rental property are entitled to more money and not interested and also other people that he believed that by close fitting may fail to cooperate, leaving the pay could be raised Heard agreed that it would be cheaper by subscription but that when done by bond issue, with the proper engineers, it is done correctly and will last longer.

Norris was queried as to whether there are plans by the city to rid the river of pollution. He answered that this would have to be done by setting up a purifying system at cost to the taxpayers and with help of federal aid, but that he believed it would be done in time.

New Industry

To the question of why there has been no more new industry in West Monroe recently, Norris said the tax structure is too high and Heard said the city also lacks an industrial site. Farmer men tioned high insurance rates as another reason.

Another question asked if there are any plans at present to put up street lights out Cypress Street to North Seventh and Burkett an swered that it would be a good program for the future, but that it is costly.

The question was raised as to whether the sewer system in the center of the city, to which Norris replied it is available to all and Cash added that the city en

NEW YORK — It's a matter of land. Then erosion from rain of some billions of years, but and weathering would flatten the land. Man's world is doomed to perish mountains and continents, and more and more of the existing land surface would be submerged under water.

So says Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper, famous astronomer of the Yerkes Observatory at the University of Chicago.

Ultimately there is real danger the whole earth would become one vast ocean, Dr. Kuiper says. Humans might survive by building one of several ways, as a habit, been doing.

For the sun, now probably 5½ to 6 billion years old, is slowly increasing in size and brightness. Even if that happens, there's trouble ahead. It would come when all the radioactive elements in the earth's crust and upper layer disappeared.

These radioactive elements are large its total radiation would splitting apart and producing about 100 times stronger than heat. The heat creates magma or molten material which pushes up to create new mountains and volcanoes.

Then our earth would heat up, destroying all life as we know it. Oceans would boil and steam would fill our atmosphere. This phase could last about one billion years while the sun was a giant star.

Then the sun would likely shrink again, becoming increasingly faint, increasingly cool.

The steam and water vapor would condense, forming oceans again. But as the earth's temperature dropped, the seas would freeze over. Some millions of years later, all the earth would be covered with snow and ice.

All isn't hopeless even then for the victims were Hubert Wyatt, a rebirth of life on earth, Dr. Reed Taylor, 19; Blythe Tay-Kuiper says.

The dwarf sun might collide with another star and flame up again to provide enough heat for life, but this "is so unlikely we need not consider it seriously."

One theory is the universe began from the explosion of one great atom, and since then all the stars and collections of stars like our Milky Way — have been rushing away from each other.

But billions of years from now, this expanding may stop and the whole thing come back together again.

Such a contraction would create enough heat to warm up the earth again, but only for a short time. Dr. Kuiper says, until everything in the universe had formed again in one tight little ball.

But, under this same theory, it could all start over again later on.

For now, the best estimate Dr. Kuiper offers is three to four billion more years of life on this planet earth.
